British Polling Stations Report Large Turnout

Shares on London Stock Market Gain As Election Is Held

LONDON (AP)—Britons voted in heavy numbers today for a new government. Late predictions favored the ruling Conservatives to win a third term in office.

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, looking up at the sky after voting, remarked jauntily: "Warm and fine all day, with very good prospects later."

Macmillan's opponent, Labor leader Hugh Gaitskell, toured his home district of South Leeds in the industrial Yorkshire area to get out last-minute support. Gaitskell, 53, had voted by mail earlier.

Shares on the London Stock Market surged sharply upward to reflect the financial district's confidence in a Conservative victory. Brokers crowded the exchange, jostling each other in a scramble to join the brisk trading.

Neither the Conservatives nor the Laborites ever have formed three governments in a row for Britain in recent times. The Conservatives won three straight elections in 1922, 1923 and 1924. But in 1922 Labor formed a short-lived minority government with Liberal support. The Liberals won three straight elections in 1906, January 1910 and December 1910.

Despite morning fog—the season's first after Britain's sunniest summer and fall in 200 years—voters turned out in big numbers. The fog gave way to sunshine in many areas later.

Some polling stations reported the turnout running well ahead of the last election in 1955, when a 76.8 per cent poll brought 26,700,000 voters to the booths.

Eleventh-hour public opinion polls, the stock market and the bookmakers — legal in Britain — all indicated the Conservatives would win a majority of the 630 House seats and with it five more years in control of the government.

After a final canvass of 100 key voting districts, Conservative leaders predicted their majority would be about 50 seats, three less than when Parliament was dissolved Sept. 18.

The Laborites also predicted victory for their side by a majority of about 15 seats.

Three final public opinion polls showed a jump in Conservative popularity. But they still reported a massive 16 per cent of "don't knows"—people who either hadn't decided which way to vote or wouldn't tell their decision.

Ike on Way to Washington, T-H Decision

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—President Eisenhower boarded an Air Force jet airliner and left his Southern California desert vacation retreat at 7 a.m. PST today bound for Washington.

A crowd of 200 people cheered the smiling President as he arrived at the airport via helicopter.

He looked tanned, relaxed and his hoarseness, which he had when he arrived here eight days ago, was gone.

The President took off for Washington for an indicted speedy decision on use of the Taft-Hartley law in the steel strike.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, told newsmen that after seven full days of basking in the sun the President's cold was "greatly improved although he still has traces of it. He has not completely gotten rid of it."

During his stay as the guest of an old friend, George E. Allen, Eisenhower got in six 18 hole rounds of golf in temperatures ranging up to 115 degrees in the sun.

TV Probe Reveals NBC's Action

'Tic Tac Dough's' Producer Is Fired

WASHINGTON (AP) — The producer of one of the few surviving television quiz shows has been fired because he would not swear that there had been no advance coaching of contestants.

House investigators looking behind the scenes of TV quiz show operations heard that testimony Wednesday from Thomas E. Ervin, vice president and general counsel of the National Broadcasting Co.

Ervin said Howard Felsher, producer of the daytime television show Tic Tac Dough was fired last week by the network.

Word of the firing came after two press agents for another quiz program, the defunct show Twenty-One, testified that program had been rigged. They said their lawyer had told them not to tell the truth about this to New York authorities. The lawyer denied the accusation.

After a long day of open testimony, the House Legislative Oversight subcommittee went behind closed doors to question Daniel Enright, a co-owner, and Albert Freedman, producer of the Twenty-One show, which once drew top audience ratings.

Both declined comment before and after the four-hour session.

Today's questions were to center on Dotto, one of the first big quiz shows to collapse under the taint of scandal.

Most of Wednesday's probing centered on Twenty-One. Late in the day, Alfred Davis and Arthur Franklin testified the show had been rigged. The two had been press agents for the program.

They said an attorney for their firm, Edwin Slote of New York, told them not to tell New York authorities the truth about the program.

Slote's law office later issued a statement authorized in his behalf. It said: "At no time were either Mr. Davis or his firm advised to tell anything other than the truth to any inquiries wherever initiated. . ."

AGENT — Alfred Davis, publicity agent for the now-defunct TV quiz show "Twenty-One," talks to newsmen in Washington after he testified before the House subcommittee investigating the show.

4 Hurt In Rt. 30 Crash Involving School Bus

Some 57 Calcutta area youngsters escaped possible serious injury this morning when a loaded pottery firm truck rammed the rear of an auto, then hit the front of a halted Beaver Local school bus on Rt. 7 about three miles from the Williamsport area schools. It was the last stop before the school.

A Youngstown boy and girl were hurt when the car was hit. They were admitted to East Liverpool City Hospital.

The State Highway Patrol at Lisbon said No. 14 school bus, carrying fifth to twelfth graders from the Calcutta district, had halted to pick up youngsters near the Cecil Lynn farm, about a quarter of a mile north of Rt. 30.

Henry C. Smith, 63, of Cannons Mills Rd., was driving the bus enroute to both the high school and public schools, which are on opposite sides of the highway. A car, apparently driven south by Julius Anderson, 21, of Youngstown, halted facing the bus.

Officers said a large van truck, also driven south by Chester Leslie, 52, of Lisbon RD 3, failed to stop and crashed into the rear of Anderson's sedan, then struck the left front of the bus.

Anderson is in "fairly good" condition at the hospital with possible fractured ribs and his passenger, Nancy Davis, 17, also of Youngstown, is in "fairly good" condition with a neck injury.

Leslie told officers the truck brakes failed. The truck is owned by Pottery Products Inc., of East Liverpool, a dinnerware and glassware retail outlet.

Smith, the bus driver, suffered minor cuts of the arms as glass chips flew from the shattered windshield.

Jack Bornell of Calcutta and Benny Gamble of Smiths Ferry Rd., eighth graders, reported their

Couple Badly Hurt In Crash West of City

A two-car crash on Rt. 62 about one and one-half miles west of Salem Wednesday night hospitalized an Alliance man and two Washington, D.C., residents.

Injured in the collision at about 9 p.m. were:

William D. Vance, 57, the driver of the out-of-state auto, who is in poor condition today at Central Clinic with scalp cuts, contusions of the left leg, knee and back and possible fractured ribs.

Mrs. Mae Vance, 63, a passenger in her husband's auto, who is also in poor condition, the Clinic said, suffering from contusions and lacerations of the hand, head, knees and leg.

Charles L. Dougan, 36, of RD 3, Alliance, who is in fairly good condition with cuts of the skin and scalp, knee abrasions and a possible back injury.

The mishap occurred, the Highway Patrol said, when the Dougan auto smashed into the rear of the other auto which was traveling "very slow."

The impact knocked Vance's auto off the road and into a utility pole which was snapped off by the blow. The auto rolled over once and ended back on its wheels.

Dougan was arrested for excessive speed, the patrolmen said.

School Executives To Hear Financial Talk

LISBON — Robert Rone, director of finance for the State Department of Education, will discuss finance and laws pertaining to the schools at the third meeting of the school executive educational council composed of school executives of cities, exempted villages, and county schools when they meet on Friday noon at the Wick Hotel.

USW, Industry Still Deadlocked After Meeting

Negotiators Meet Ike's Deadline for T-H Use Today

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP)—Steel negotiators today came up against President Eisenhower's implied strike settlement deadline without hope of quickly ending the 86-day-old strike and apparently resigned to government use of the Taft-Hartley law.

Each side said it did not want government legal intervention. United Steelworkers President David J. McDonald said his union would undertake a legal fight to prevent it. But he said workers would obey the law of the land.

The actions of both sides, however, indicated they preferred operating under a court injunction rather than acceptance of the other's demands for a dispute-ending agreement.

The last joint negotiating session was held Tuesday night. It ended in complete deadlock. Since then there is no evidence that either side has attempted to arrange further joint meetings.

Eight days ago, President Eisenhower called union and industry leaders to Washington. He said he wanted to see some progress in negotiations before his return from a California vacation today.

Wednesday, as the President wound up his Palm Springs, Calif., vacation, a motorcade of steelworkers visited his retreat with a petition asking that he not invoke the Taft-Hartley law.

White House press secretary James Hagerty greeted them and after reading the petition told them: "The President hopes the strike will be settled by collective bargaining too."

After the White House meeting in Washington, industry proposed a 15-cent hourly package increase over a two-year period. It was the first money offer submitted by industry.

The proposal was contingent on union agreement to contract changes allowing management greater control over working conditions in the mills.

The union rejected the money offer as completely unsatisfactory and said the move to change working conditions was union busting.

Wynn, Podres To Tangle In Series Today

CHICAGO (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers went out today to clinch their second world baseball championship, facing old-timer Early Wynn and the Chicago White Sox in the sixth game of the World Series.

Manager Walt Alston of the Dodgers called on left - handed pitcher Johnny Podres, star of the 1955 World Series. His club holds a 3-2 edge in the best-of-seven series.

The White Sox, who remained in contention with a heart-tugging 1-0 victory Tuesday in Los Angeles, were 11-10 favorites to win today's game. But the Dodgers still ruled 2½-1 favorites to win this 56th World Series.

Another sellout crowd of 48,000 was expected at Comiskey Park as the series shifted—after a day layoff—from the three-game stand at the Los Angeles Coliseum.

Partly cloudy skies with 70-degree temperatures were forecast.

T-H Order Sought In Dock Walkout

President Cites Health Hazard To Coast Cities

Injunction Would Put 85,000 Men Back on Their Jobs

NEW YORK (AP)—Acting on President Eisenhower's orders, government attorneys moved to seek a court order today sending 85,000 striking longshoremen back to work from Maine to Texas.

There was little doubt a Taft-Hartley law injunction — requiring an 80-day return to work — would be issued promptly in U.S. District Court. A judge's ruling was required, but never before has an injunction been refused in the 15 previous times the government has invoked the law's emergency provisions.

A court order ending the week-old strike was expected to send the workers back to the docks no later than Friday. William V. Bradley, president of the striking International Longshoremen's Assn., said, "When we receive the order we will comply with it."

In ordering court action, Eisenhower repeated that if the strike were permitted to continue, it would imperil national health and safety and affect the food supply of the heavily populated Atlantic and Gulf Coast areas.

His order climaxed a day in which the Taft-Hartley law's emergency machinery turned with almost unprecedented speed.

A fact-finding board held hearings in Washington Wednesday morning, wrote its report during the afternoon, and dispatched it by Navy jet plane Wednesday night to Eisenhower's vacation headquarters at La Quinta, Calif.

Eisenhower received the report and ordered the court action less than 17 hours after the board started its hearings.

Gasoline Storage Tank Blows Up

2 Persons Die In Georgia Explosion

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP)—Flaming gasoline killed two persons and burned five others when a 20,000-gallon storage tank went up with a roar in the southern section of the city Wednesday.

Firemen prevented the blaze from spreading to nine other tanks at the Gulf Oil Co. bulk storage yard.

G. W. Dubose, 31, was trying to fix a leaky safety valve at the base of the tank containing high octane gasoline at the time of the flareout. He died instantly.

Otis L. Robinson, 39, also trying to stop the leak, stepped back to wipe his face. The flames engulfed him too. He died in a hospital a few hours later.

Burned critically were Mrs. J. B. Harper Jr., 34, who operates a tire and supply firm with her husband in the Gulf storage lot; Fred W. Mitchell, 52, office manager for Gulf; and Ivan Garrett, 38, a Gulf employe.

Treated and released were Melvin Taylor, 37, a Gulf employe, and John Franklin Moore, 22, a volunteer fireman.

There was no immediate estimate of the damage.

Taylor said he believed a spark caused by statis electricity may have started the fire.

Piano Team Entertains Concert Fans

Arthur Whittemore and Jack Lowe, duo pianists, played a variety program for an overflow audience Wednesday night when the Community Concert Association of Northern Columbiana County presented its first entertainment of the season in Salem Junior High School auditorium.

The national favorites, who made their last appearance here during the 1947-48 season, commanded the complete attention of their audience immediately with their first number, "Valses Nobles" by Schubert, won the interest of the children in the audience with a group of "Childhood Games" by Bizet, and concluded the first portion of their program with "Variations on a Theme of Haydn" by Brahms.

Following intermission, the artists played a group of Whittemore and Lowe "specialties" keyed to please the various types of music lovers in the audience, a Spanish dance, "Jota" by Falla; "The Lover and the Nightingale" by Granados; a movement from the Mother Goose Suite by Ravel; Fritz Kreisler's "Gypsy Dance"; "Caprice"

County Home Staff Voted Pay Raise

LISBON — Columbiana County Home employes received a requested $10 a month raise and one day a week off after the commissioners approved it at a meeting this morning.

R. Max Gard, chairman of the commissioners' board, made a motion for the $10 per month pay raise across the board and one day off each week, and Walter Hunston of East Palestine seconded the motion. In the vote Gard and Hunston voted for it and Frank Wilson of Wellsville voted against the proposal.

Hunston said he approved the motion after he conferred with Home Superintendent Russell Phillis this morning.

The raise will go into effect Nov. 1 and does not have any effect on Mr. or Mrs. Phillis, superintendent and matron, or the new nurse who was hired last month.

Recommendations for more help under the new agreement were made by Supt. Phillis but no action has been taken by the commissioners.

Lake Shippers Set to Return

57 Vessels Would Move Iron Ore

CLEVELAND (AP)—If a decision is made to invoke the Taft-Hartley law and halt the steel strike for 80 days, just about everything that will float and carry iron ore will be made ready to haul the red dirt.

Should the striking United Steelworkers be ordered back to work under Taft-Hartley law procedure, it will take about four days to round up crews and get the big vessels underway, shipping sources here say. Most of the lakes ore-shipping crewmen are United Steelworkers Union members.

Only 37 vessels of the 243 in the Great Lakes ore fleet were operating last month, and most of these were in the grain and coal trade. The trickle of 85,172 gross tons of Lake Superior iron ore transported from U. S. ports last month came from mines which are not manned by United Steelworkers members and were hauled by a few shipping companies not under contract with that union.

"Winter business prospects from all accounts are bright," said Vice Adm. Lyndon Spencer, president of the Lake Carriers Assn., Wednesday. "It will, therefore, be necessary to get the iron ore fleet operating very soon if the steel mills are to receive enough ore to last until spring."

Judge Sentences Check Defendant

LISBON — A Wellsville RD 1 man was sentenced yesterday to the Ohio penitentiary after pleading guilty and another Lisbon man pleaded guilty and asked for probation.

Charles Robert Eckler, 40, changed his plea to guilty and asked for immediate sentence Wednesday afternoon on two charges of issuing fraudulent checks.

Common Pleas Judge Joel H. Sharp refused mitigation and sentenced him to 1 to 3 years on each count with the stipulation that he can serve the sentences concurrenly.

Kenneth McVay, 24, of Pleasant Heights, changed his plea to guilty on the theft of a car owned by Ralph Stumpo of Leetonia May 21, and requested probation which Judge Sharp ordered. Judge Sharp also reduced bond to $1,000 from $2,000.

County Juvenile Jury Gives Youth 7-Day Suspension

LISBON — Wayne Delmer Hardy of East Rochester RD 1 was found guilty of reckless operation by a juvenile jury of six boys and six girls Wednesday afternoon in the court room at Village Hall.

It was the first session of the Juvenile Jury revived this year by Probate Judge Louis Tobin.

Hardy had his license suspended for seven days by the jury on the reckless driving charge after testimony showed he struck a car in front of him, pushing it into the ditch and his car turned over twice after striking the front car. The mishap happened on County Road 404 — the Westville-North Georgetown Rd. - about one mile south of Route 62.

Judge Tobin cited to the jury a maximum penalty of $15 fine and 15 days suspension of driver's license but they returned the seven days as the penalty.

Approximately 40 high school students from the county attended Wednesday's session. The next jury set for Wednesday, Oct. 28, at 1 p.m.

Names of the jury, school and class are:

Robert Dawson and Cindy Calcott, both East Liverpol, seniors; Albert Waite of Wellsville, senior; Micky Cope of Salem, senior; Eileen McCullough of Lisbon, senior; Mary Crouse of Columbiana, senior; Mickael Lemley of East Palestine, junior; Lynn Coppersmith of Leetonia, senior; Keith Clutter, junior; and Esther Bryan, junior, both Beaver Local; Tom Maple of United Local, senior; and Judy Johnson of Salineville, senior. Carol Wank of Salem, a junior, was alternate.

City Hospital Was Founded In 1913

Fourteen local physicians formed an association to establish a public hospital for the City of Salem in December of 1907. This group of men wanted a hospital that would aid the city and be an asset to the industries and families of the area.

The first fund drive, held in 1912, was followed by the dedication of the Salem City Hospital as a 70-bed building just one year later. A new wing was added to the hospital in 1948 increasing its bed capacity to 108.

A school of nursing was established in September of 1913 with the enrollment of four students. This school graduated more than 300 nurses before being converted into a school of practical nursing two years ago.

The present school has graduated 23 girls since its inception and is expecting a class of approximately 16 to enter Nov. 2. The school is affiliated with Akron Children's Hospital, where the girls receive their pediatric training.

The medical staff of the hospital is organized and self - regulated with regard to the professional standards of medical, surgical and obstetrical practices.

Last year 5,945 persons were admitted to City Hospital. In addition, hospital services were given to 1,954 emergencies and over 8,000 outpatients.

City Hospital will receive $9,500 from the 1959 Salem Community Fund Drive.

The accredited hospital has kept pace in its improvement and plans have been made for further development. In the works at present is an addition to the south wing which would involve several changes and improvements.

A ladies auxiliary was founded in 1934. This group provided assistance to the hospital by obtaining funds for additional equipment. They also did sewing for the hospital and were active in its public relations.

There are close to 400 members of the Ladies Auxiliary at present and they promote the welfare of the Hannah E. Mullins school of practical nursing and raise money solely for the benefit of the school. The school bears the name of the mother of W. H. Mullins, chairman of the building committee and donor of the first operating room equipment. Mr. Mullins continued his generous donations and, in 1918 purchased the Charles Bonsall residence across from the hospital and gave it as a nurses' residence.

In the hospital wing added in 1948, there is new laboratory and X-ray equipment, operating rooms, delivery rooms, nurseries and a formula room. Other recent improvements include a recovery room to provide specialized nursing care for patients recovering from anesthesia, isolation units for communicable diseases, elevators and a parking lot. A new main entrance is under construction at the hospital at present.

Pages from the Home Gardener's Notebook:

Spice Your Garden With These Herbs

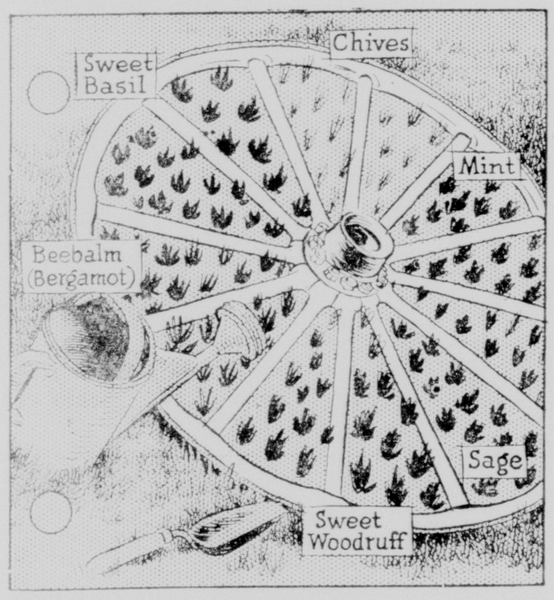

By ALLAN SWENSON
(Written for NEA Service)

Herbs can add fragrance, color and spice, to your garden. In addition, they'll flavor your meals all year long.

In cooking or for salads, you only need a small amount of herbs to add fine flavor to a meal. It's easy to find a little space that will reward you many times with a wide variety of herbs. They do well in borders or beds. They can accent walls or be distinctive in their own attractive plot.

SIX HERBS named by the French, "les fines herbes," are ideal for beginners. They are: sweet basil, chervil, sweet marjoram, thyme, rosemary and tarragon. To those you'll want to add some mixers; chive, parsley, summer savory, and others that suit your taste. Mints are the perfect blender for many cooling summer drinks.

Later as you perfect both your growing and culinary skill with herbs, others can be added to your garden. Anise, costmary, fennel, garlic, lemon balm and lovage are popular. Their flavors help make economy meals a treat.

MOST HERBS will grow in almost any soil with reasonable care.

Savory herbs are more sensitive to soil moisture. Sage, rosemary and thyme, for examples, enjoy a well-drained moderately moist soil.

Parsley, chervil and the mints need more moisture. Mints, especially, require a slightly shady spot where water from a tap or hose will dampen the soil frequently.

Before planting, mix good garden soil with fertilizer high in phosphorus. Manure and compost are helpful in making a perennial bed for herbs.

Hardy perennials such as chive, thyme ,mint, rosemary, sage, marjoram, and winter savory provide seasoning materials all year long. Cuttings can be taken from your outdoor garden and grown in a window herb box indoors in winter.

AN OLD WAGON WHEEL permits you to separate the type of soil in which each herb grows best. It's decorative, as well. But colorful, fragrant herbs can add highlights to your flower borders if you wish.

For annuals, and perennials, too, curing is a relatively simple process. Leaves and stems are dried best in a warm, well-ventilated area indoors. Kept in airtight jars, they'll retain their flavoring power to enrich your meals around the calendar.

A handy 33-page guide called "Savory Herbs" describes in detail culture and use of herbs. Your local county agricultural agcan usually provide a free copy for you.

'Startime's' Debut Roaring Success

NEW YORK (AP)—The full and official name of NBC's series of Tuesday night specials is "Startime-TV's Finest Hour." And the first show Tuesday night, "The Wonderful World of Entertainment," came close to making good that boast.

A lot of talented people produced an ambitious, fast-moving and obviously expensive musical show. The general idea was to take a quick look at Broadway, Hollywood, radio and TV from 1927 to the present. It provided a good hook on which to hang pleasant and familiar music, a little satire, a lot of comedy, and even a serious bit from the play, "Picnic."

Rosalind Russell was the energetic hostess, and wore some fabulous clothes. She participated in a funny burlesque of her own old movies—the ones in which she played the high-collared lady executive who in the final clinch threw away her career for love. Ernie Kovacs was postively great as the lover.

In the song department there were Kate Smith and Polly Bergen roving happily among the hits of three decades, from "Why Was I Born?" to "God Bless America." Maurice Chevalier, singing, dancing, and waxing sentimental, made his own special contribution while Jack Paar turned up again as a comedian—a good one, too—instead of a television host.

The dancing was interesting, particularly one good - humored ballet that told the stirring story of the cowpoke who cleaned up Laredo, turned in his sheriff's badge and swore off killing. This came during a bow to the 1920 movie cowboys, Tom Mix, Hoot Gibson and William S. Hart, but it would have been even more apt when TV was getting its share of the show's attention.

There was more, much more, and all of it bright, tasteful entertainment. It was a fine beginning for the series and seemed a positive tour de force amid this season's claptrap.

If the rest of these "Startime" specials are as good as the first one, it bodes ill for ABC's "Philip Marlow" series, which premiered Tuesday night at the same time. I had a prevue of the first show and found it a well-paced, entertaining half-hour show, infinitely superior to most of the soggy, overlong crime shows cluttering up prime viewing time.

Philip Carey fits neatly the fiction character made famous by Raymond Chandler and there was actually a plot, complete with puzzle.

Khrushchev Is Looking Forward to 'Summit'

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Nikita Khrushchev apparently is looking forward to a summit meeting this fall or winter.

Making a leisurely trip home from Peiping, the Soviet Premier told a crowd in Vladivostok Tuesday:

"The summit meeting . . . which may apparently be called this autumn or winter will continue the exchange of views on problems agitating the peoples."

Hart's 'Act One'

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Once upon a time a poverty-ridden young office boy in a theatrical office picked up his pen and wrote his way to five million dollars.

"I have none of the money left, and I have no regrets," said playwright Moss Hart, who at 54 is still one of the theater's top earners.

"Looking back this summer, I was amazed to find I had written 22 plays and directed 11 others. It's a wonder, coming up to the firing line so often, I don't look 84.

"The week before 'Once in a Lifetime' opened I was making $45 a week, the next week $2,000. And when it closed a year and a half later, I only had $750 left.

"But someone once said you only keep what you spend, and I believe it.

"I'm not a fool about money. It's because I know the value of money that I'm not afraid of it, and refuse to worry about it. I feel that if you think poor, you write poor."

Moss, haunted by poverty and great dreams, had to go to work before he was old enough to enter high school. He has told of his early struggles memorably in "Act One," a best-selling autobiography that has met instant acclaim, which he hugely enjoys.

"I'm taking it big," he said pleasantly. "I hate mock modesty. I believe people should enjoy success to the full.

"But everything in life has its price. The wisdom lies in deciding when the price is too high.

"Some people are left in life with nothing but success. But you can't wake up in the morning and wrap your arms around a good press notice.

"To strike a balance—that's the trick. One has to strike a balance, so that one's work doesn't rob one of all the other things."

A heart attack five years ago led Moss to reassess his own life.

"In eight weeks of lying flat in bed you make a lot of hospital resolves, and some of them you keep," he said. "After that nothing that happens seems quite so calamitous, and every sunny day seems a bit sunnier."

Author Somserset Maugham recently described Hart as "the world's best talker." He puffs meditatively on a caramel-colored meerschaum pipe.

"I'm a greater believer in not sitting down in your own mind," Moss said. "You can't let yourself become too comfortable. You have to shake up your life now and then—even if to do so is boring, unpleasant or even dangerous."

Asked his advice to young writers, Moss said crisply: "Sit down and write. There is no other way. Writing is learned only by writing."

Where Is Yankee Doodle?

If some of us can close our eyes and still see Nikita Khrushchev, it must be because he made the impression he hoped to make when he visited here.

He is a man bristling with energy.

His convictions stick out of him like a porcupine's quills.

At a time when most men would have disappeared somewhere for a rest-up period after a strenuous fortnight on the American sight-seeing and banquet circuit, Premier Khrushchev was off and away to more of the same in Red China.

There was no lull in his life while he digested the double helpings dished out to him on his visit to the United States.

He stayed relentlessly on his job of drumming up sympathetic interest in his product, which he calls socialism and which he peddles under the house flag of the international Communist conspiracy.

It does not crab his act to realize that the names and the sponsorship are both phony; that he is not selling socialism and that the international Communist conspiracy is in fact nothing but the Kremlin spreading itself thin in places outside the boundaries of the Soviet Union.

All that matters to the bountifully energetic Mr. Chairman of the massive project is the fact he has been attaining momentum at a rate never dreamed of by the sour Stalin and the unbending Molotov.

Nikita Khrushchev has turned himself into the ace drummer for Russian expansionism—a word and an idea no harder to understand than Americanism. If the word were "Russianism," it might be easier to understand what is involved.

A big nation has taken a new lease on life.

It has done this by liquidating a regime so rotten and weak it was bound to be toppled by someone.

It is historic fact that the Russians who did the toppling were then toppled in turn by counter-revolutionists who clinched their power under Stalin and now are in the process of political evolution under Khrushchev.

It is demonstrable truth that they are socialists only when it suits their aims to be anti-capitalist; that they are esesntially opportunists making up rules for themselves as they go along.

And their principal aim is to expand the influence of their country, just as Americans aim to expand their influence. Russians, with no experience in the arts and privileges of freedom, have become experts in what might be described as "dictatorship with nominal consent." Their favorite claim, which Khrushchev bangs out at every opportunity, is the rate of progress they are maintaining.

What he is saying is, in effect, that dictatorship can work near-miracles, which is the claim Mussolini used with telling effect when he boasted that Fascism in Italy had made the trains run on time.

The trouble is, of course, that dictatorship is not satisfied with making trains run on time. Dictators begin to like the sound of their edicts. They want to branch out and assert their mastery over mankind as well as materialism.

That is where Americanism and Russiansim part company.

Americanism aims to liberate men. Russianism aims to bind them by the doctrine that they shall not question the edicts of the supreme state; i.e., the politicians who happen to be in the ascendancy at the moment.

Khrushchev has turned himself into an ace salesman for Russianism.

Americanism needs to have someone on the road to offset his tireless energy.

Dwight Eisenhower did a fine job, briefly, on his trip to Paris, Bonn and London. Richard Nixon has done a good job on occasions.

But Americanism needs a Yankee Doodle drummer who can keep American ideas in the foreground around the clock and through the calendar.

That is what some of us think about now that Mr. Khrushchev has been here and gone. It was about the only place of any importance he hasn't set on its ear with his dynamic drummership.

The man is tireless.

The Case of the Flexible President

A couple of important anniversaries in the presidential career of Dwight D. Eisenhower passed recently. It has been one year since Sherman Adams resigned as his top assistant and four years since his heart attack.

It is interesting now to consider why. The prime reason is the personality of the President himself.

Ever since the 1955 illness there have been many who felt Mr. Eisenhower was the chief executive in name only. Other serious illnesess, during which he necessarily relied even more heavily on Mr. Adams, increased the frequency of the charges.

THE PRESIDENT'S defense of his top lieutenant—"I need him"—when the latter came under fire did not help his prestige on that score. Snide remarks about how Mr. Eisenhower would get along without the hard-headed workhorse were a dime a dozen in Washington.

Another factor was the President's dependence on John Foster Dulles in international affairs. Less than six months ago, when the secretary of state died, pundits were lamenting the lack of apparent vigor in the resident of the White House.

Yet today the same pundits are hailing the return of the "old Ike" of pre-presidential days. He has given a new look to U.S. foreign policy, touring Europe's capitals and arranging the historic exchange of visits with Premier Khrushchev. He has personally delved deeper into domestic affairs than at any time since the earliest days of his administration, wringing from Congress some important legislative gains and controlling Congress with his vetoes.

Has Mr. Eisenhower really changed? Probably not. It just seems so.

Basically he has always been a flexible man, adapting himself and his talents to whatever the circumstances demanded. That was the trait that most accounted for his climb to the top in the Army. His flexibiliy has been the most consistent part of his personality.

THUS HE could apply his famed "no man is indispensable" philosophy to his top aides as well as to himself, and when he was without them, adapt himself to make up the loss.

He makes no bones of the fact that, like most good generals, he prefers to use the staff approach to his job, letting his team do the work but reserving the responsibility to himself. Yet, like most good generals, he can take complete charge when the circumstances demand it, accepting the burden of the work as well as the responsibility.

In neither case can it be said that he has been passive. He is the President, and even when others doubted it, he knew it.

So if he appears to be a different person today from that of a year ago, it is only because he has called up a different phase of the same flexible man.

STOCK TICKER and board has been set up at entrance to dining room of a New York restaurant. This can ruin appetites if there is a sell-off. On the other hand if there's a rise it can lead to overeating. Personally, we don't like the idea. We like to take our mind off stock or off food and can't take a half-and-half attitude. Tickers and boards, however, are now possibility in many restaurants. We fear the conversation with the waiter:

"What's good?" asks the customer.

"The chef recommends du Pont common with baked potato preferred. I like roast sirloin of beef at these levels," says the waiter.

"I had a top on your ham and eggs for a quick turnover. How did your consomme open today?" asks the diner.

"It's off a little from yesterday's close," says the waiter, adding, "How about a cocktail? The kitchen statistician offers a new issue of martini, four-and-a-quarters. Smart people like 'em," says the waiter.

You say martinis are a short sale and suggest convertible Manhattans, remarking, "Some of my friends tell me to watch your filet mignons of 1959 with split peas." There mere use of the word "split," overheard at nearby tables, causes a riot.

Remember away back when auto mufflers lasted years and weren't of such thin material they went to pieces in a little more than a year?

It seems that when playing golf on the Coast the President got in frequent touch with Washington through a "Gen. Goodpaster." A name like that is all important in a golfing mood.

Now We're Confused, But Good!

Chinese Trip Casts Doubt

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
For James Marlow

The recent activities of Nikita Khrushchev have been generating some wishful thinking in the West. Yet, upon examination, the Soviet Premier's China trip actually should tend to cast suspicion upon the peaceful sentiments he expressed during his tour of the United States.

In Red China, Khrushchev attended the 10th anniversary celebration of the Communist takeover. What went on appears to have moved some in the West to speak hopefully of a Soviet-Chinese cleavage.

But how much of what it hears about this can the West afford to trust? From outward appearances, there would seem to have been some coolness between the Soviet chief and the Red Chinese leadership. However, assessing this, one finds it difficult to forget that the men now ruling the Communist world spent most of their lives in the school of deviousness and subterfuge.

Possibly there are some points of conflict between Khrushchev and the Red Chinese. Perhaps there are ruffled Chinese feathers. But the evidence indicates a broad area of collaboration in foreign policy between Moscow and Peiping.

The Soviet leader's Peiping trip coincided with a meeting of top-ranking Communist leaders and delegations from all corners of the earth. The Peiping celebration, as similar occasions in Moscow have done, provided a convenient excuse for a Communist international session.

It would be naive to believe all that took place in Peiping was broadcast or published, or, indeed, that anything was made public which was not in the interests of the Communist movement. One must assume Khrushchev gave world Communist leaders his view of how his U.S. tour fitted in with Communist world designs.

It might be comforting to think Khrushchev's American visit resulted in aggravations between Moscow and Peiping. A superficial glance at what took place in Peiping might give rise to such a conclusion. But perhaps that is what the Communists want the West to believe.

By stating it would be unwise to test the durability of the capitalist world by force of arms, Khrushchev put himself in the clear. If anything happens now in Asia, is he responsible in any way? Did he not warn against it?

The initiative for creating international crisis still is in the hands of the Communists. They can do so when they wish in Berlin, on the borders of Asia, in the Formosa Strait, in Southeast Asia, on the India frontier, or a number of other places.

The Communists have deliberately provoked crises in the past. Why? Obviously because they had need for crises at those moments. The need will arise again, sooner or later, and the Communists will pull the rug from under those who have been dreaming of a future free of tension.

When the time comes, Khrushchev can easily tell his own people he tried his best for peace and was thwarted. He can blame the other side.

Evidence of a Soviet-Chinese rift over Khrushchev's American performance is far too flimsy to be relied upon. Until there is incontrovertible proof of it, the West must assume there is close collaboration between the two big Communist partners — and that they are up to no good.

A Nickel's Worth

By TRUMAN TWILL

Exactly as I figured, Premier Khrushchev's visit kept everybody so busy no one noticed the absence of one stranger in the balcony.

But as it turned out, Truman Twill must have been the only practicing newspaperman in the whole country who didn't get in a nickel's worth about the Russian visitor.

Never before have so many written so much about so little.

This is not said in disparagement of Nikita Khrushchev, who clearly is one of the complex public figures of the era. It is said in disparagement of all the gritty slaves of opinionation who must take it on themselves to sit in judgment in a situation like this.

The slaves have no choice, actually.

Opinionating is their function, which they perform often against their own inclination.

That would have been my situation, had I been on the job while the Russian Premier was here. I would have had no inclination to opinionate about him as a statesman.

But like thousands of others, I would have been impelled to pass judgment, figuring that was what I was expected to do.

Fortunately, there now has been time for second, third and fourth thought on the matter. I have an opinion about Khrushchev as an individual.

Premier Khrushchev, it appears to me, proved he is the No. 1 public psychologist of his era.

It is what all politicians aim to be. They hope to understand the public well enough to exploit its moods and predispositions. Mr. K did that to Americans.

He had grasped the essential fact of American psychology, which is an inordinately strong desire to prove to the Old World that the New World is doing very nicely, thank you.

Nothing makes Americans happier than to show off to visitors from abroad — especially to visitors who symbolize the Old World's old ideas.

Khrushchev is a symbol of political authoritarianism, the time-worn theory that all ordinary men should bow down to the edicts of a few extraordinary men who get that way by going through the chairs of authoritarian responsibility.

He is no more a socialist than your Aunt Minnie.

There is more real socialism in the platforms and practices of the major political platforms in this country than there is in the whole Soviet shebang.

If Americans want to make future book on probabilities, they can bet there will be more old-time dog-eat-dog capitalism in the Soviet Union in the next generation than will be found in the United States.

Socialism vs. capitalism is not what the cold war is about.

Peave vs. war is not what all the high-level visiting is about.

The issue is whether ordinary men shall be permitted to hold their heads high and look all other men in the eye fearlessly, or whether they must lower their gaze and murmur assent to the authoritarians.

It is whether they shall be governed with or without their consent.

Premier Khrushchev has a shrewd grasp of public psychology. He came here to gratify our habit of trying to make a hit with every Old World visitor. By doing us the favor of letting us show him what fine fellows we are in the New World, he hoped to make us feel more favorably inclined toward his Old World doctrine that odinary men should defer to the judgment of extraordinary men like him who know what is good for all us punks and lumpies.

He did a bang-up job. But some of us punks and lumpies intend to keep right on insisting that no man is extraordinary enough to lord it over his fellow creatures. We do not intend to be fooled by misleading labels.

SIDE GLANCES

By Galbraith

"One person could never have turned out a mess like that. It must have been painted by a committee!"

The Language Barrier

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Inacurate Translations Were Reported

How big an obstacle to understanding between nations is the language barrier?

A conspicuous example of faulty translation has just been given in the Khrushchev visit. There were several instances in which the questions asked by Americans were inaccurately translated and several instances in which the American people were not given a true translation of what the Soviet Premier said in reply.

David Lawrence

Whether there was an attempt by the Russian interpreters to "soften" the words of Mr. Khruchchev is beside the point. The truth is that, to furnish a correct translation, it would have been necessary to use more time. Only an interpreter who knows shorthand and could take down every word and then have a few minutes to translate his notes carefully could have done a 100 per cent job.

Then, too, there are differences as to the fine meanings of words. Naturally, the Soviet Premier preferred his own interpreters and both the men he used, although they took notes as he spoke, necessarily condensed his remakrs in translating what he had said.

Again and again, the Soviet Premier talked at length but the translation was only half as long. The gist, to be sure, was given but, in anything so important, many listeners prefer to get the whole phrasing so that they can form their own impressions.

Thus, during the question-and-answer period at the National Press Club on Sept. 16, there was a sharp question about Hungary. The interpreter said that Mr. Khrushchev's reply was as follows:

"We, for our part, could think of quite a few questions of similar character."

-:-

ACTUALLY, according to a tape-recording examined later by expert translators — naturalized Americans who know Russian — Mr. Khrushchev said:

"I can toss more than one dead cat your way, even fre'her, you know, than the question about hungary."

Maybe if the newsmen present had been given the exact answer, they might have asked the Soviet Premier to tell them the specific instances he had in mind.

Again, when speaking of the Bolshevik revolution of October 1917, the Soviet Premier, as his remarks were translated, referred to it as what "we consider to be a great date in the history of mankind." Mr. Khrushchev actually said: "We feel that the time will come when people will count the years, so to speak, from the October revolution."

When newsmen asked about Stalin's 'crimes," the official interpreter used the word "errors" or "distrotions." Once, when the reporters asked what is the Soviet schedule for "sending a man to the moon,' the interpreter relayed the question to Mr. Khrushchev as asking when they "plan to throw a man onto the moon."

The Soviet Premier then devoted a good part of his answer to explaining that the Soviets "value people very much" and "would not throw a man onto the moon ever" but would "send" a man there some day.

On one occasion — in San Francisco—the Soviet Premier blew up when he was given a question about his fatigue. It was a faulty translation. When heard in English, it was obviously intended as a sympathetic inquiry.

UNFORTUNATELY, at the San Francisco meeting with the labor leaders where this episode occurred, no tape recording is believed to have been made. It would be very interesting, indeed, if all the words spoken to and by the Soviet Premier at the public meetings during his visit to the United States were translated accurately now for the benefit of historians.

No blame should be placed on the interpreters. They did the best they could considering the speed required under the circumstances, though a distinct difference between the first and the second translators used by Mr. Khrushchev was noted. The second one speaks English colloquially and with a Midwestern accent.

Translation difficulties, however, are not confined to debates between the leaders of the East and West. West Germans are still talking about an error made by a German interpreter when President Eisenhower made his memorable trip to Bonn a month ago. As he concluded his speech, the President said to the big audience, "God bless you" but Chancellor Adenauer's personal interpreter gave the following phrasing to the crowd: "I wish you all the best."

Many of the German people who saw the event on television and who understand English noticed th error and wrote to the newspapers about it.

One newspaper, in a front page editorial, sympathized with the interpreter's problem on the ground that the same phrase in German, "Gott segne sie," has a deeper religious meaning than is common when the phrase is used in the United States.

The editorial also said that the translator's words were too weak and failed to convey a meaning that was "typically American and typically Eisenhower."

With all the electronic devices now being invented to speed the transmission of human language, maybe somebody will find a way to achieve accurate interpreting.

But, for the present, the best solution is to have tape recordings made and let a group of language scholars write the translation afterward, when there's time to consult dictionaries and settle the fine points of the language meanings.

'Hot Money' Alarms Swiss

By OMER ANDERSON

ZURICH

Switzerland's major banks are moving to control the influx of "hot money" into this privileged sanctuary of the numbered bank account.

For the first time ever, the stolid Swiss bankers are admitting to alarm. Major banks have come to a gentleman's agreement on the handling of hot money—"flight capital," as it is called in proper financial circles. Main points:

1. Suspect "flight capital" will be discreetly screened as to its origin and, if patently pilfered, the money will be refused.

2. Banks will refuse, in any circumstance, to convert "flight capital" into Swiss francs.

3. Nor will such money be accepted for investment in Swiss securities or real estate.

ONCE FAMED for their facade of imperturbability, Switzerland's bankers are nervous over the attention thrust upon them by the collapse of the Beirut money market and the vanishing competition from Tangier, which is now administered by Morocco.

Switzerland now stands virtually alone in the world as a true fiscal haven. As such, it is more than ever the target for demands that it relinquish some of its prized anonymity, principally the device of the numbered account.

The bankers have opted to try self-regulation to forestall Swiss government action repealing the country's bank secrecy laws.

It is an open secret that the bulk of money loted from Latin American countries in the postwar wave of revolutions is on deposit in Zurich and Geneva.

It is reliably reported, in fact, that Cuba's deposed dictaor, Fulgencio Batista, was the first victim of the Swiss crackdown on hot money. Before he settled in Portugal Batista is said to have tried to deposit his bankroll in a Geneva bank but was turned down.

AMONG DEPOSED dictators rumored to have Swiss bank accounts are Argentina's Juan Peron, Venezuela's Marcos Perez Jimenez and Jacobo Arbenz Guzman, who was overthrown in Guatemala in 1954.

The fact that fleeing dictators are reported to be caching their loted national treasuries in Switzerland is generating growing hostility toward the Swiss on the part of Latin American countries.

But perhaps more important, the United States is putting pressure on the Swiss to overhaul their banking laws, because of suspicion that the Communists are using money deposited in Switzerland to buy into U.S., British and Canadian corporations.

Graham Says Soviets Will Seek God

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham said Wednesday night, "Mr. Khrushchev, despite all you say about believing in God, someday you and all your kind will call upon him."

He referred to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, who toured this country recently. He added to the 8,100 persons gathered for the second night of his 27-night crusade here: "And all those here tonight who have never prayed will known an hour when you will call upon His name.

"But the tragedy is that someday it will be too late to pray. The Bible tells about a man who waited until he got to hell to pray, and then it was too late. Our prayers are to be prayed this side of the grave."

Prayer "is as natural as breathing," Graham said.

Graham's appeal at the end of his sermon for listeners to come forward to bow before God "ask him to come into your hearts" was answered by 155 persons.

Leg of Lamb Tops Weekend Market List

By The Associated Press

Housewives will find leg of lamb a good buy at meat counters this weekend. Prices have been reduced a few cents on this item in many sections.

Another good buy is turkey.

Other items getting special promotion include hams, bacon, sausage and fryers.

Eggs have tumbled as much as 12 cents a dozen in some areas.

With apples in plentiful supply, and therefore at relatively low prices, produce men suggested apples are the best buy in the fruit classification.

Florida offers oranges and pineapples, which are rated good buys by produce men. Not to be outdone, California comes through with oranges and lemons as good buys. Other good buys in the fruit section are Bartlett pears, seedless grapes and Idaho prunes.

Sweet potatoes are rated as among the best buys in the vegetable category. Spinach is in the best buy list, as are cooking greens—kale and turnip tops, for example.

Good buys include snap beans, just about all kinds of cabbage, brussel sprouts, cucumbers, carrots tomatoes and cauliflower.

Iceberg lettuce and broccoli both are pretty expensive.

Beating of Dayton Child Unmerciful

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—"It's the most unmerciful beating I've ever seen on a child," Montgomery County Deputy Claude Sammon said Wednesday night as he viewed the nearly 100 welts, open cuts and two blackened eyes of the child.

Jimmy Ray Strong, 5, was treated at Miami Valley Hospital. His father, Carlos Edward Strong, 31, of near Miamisburg, was arrested for investigation of child beating.

Sammon said the child was reportedly beaten when the boy "dirtied himself."

Jimmy was later transferred to a children's home here. Sammon said the boy's mother hadn't called police because she was afraid of her husband.

Council At Leetonia Acts on Edison Contract

LEETONIA — An ordinance for a proposed rate increase in electric power passed its first reading in Village Council Wednesday evening.

The Ohio Edison Co. rate increases amount to 8 per cent for residential use and 6.47 per cent for secondary customers .

Glenn Harding, district manager, and Donald Reinhard of the Ohio Edison Co., were present at the meeting.

Council Clerk M. P. Burick reported village receipts of $6,663.08 during September. This includes: $145.15 in parking meter revenue; $3,817.57 from real estate tax; $538.36 sales tax; $2,100 liquor tax; and $262, cemetery board.

Mayor Ralph Kennedy's report showed $1,041 was received in fines and violations. He pointed out that in 1958 the village's share of cases tried was $3,987 and that $4,481 have been received for the first nine months of 1959.

Council approved legislation increasing the pay of Mrs. Frank Dominic, who answers police calls from $30 to $60 a month, effective in November.

Members authorized the street commissioner to place a road oil emulsion on Cherry St.

A motion was made to repair the roof at Village Hall. The finance committee will study the bids and award the contract.

British

steel shares made substantial gains. This indicated Britain's Financiers were confident of a Conservative victory, for Labor threatens to put the steel industry under government ownership if elected to office.

The bookies also were still betting on the Conservatives. You had to put up three pounds on the Tories for a chance at winning only one pound. And one pound on Labor gave you a chance at winning three if the Laborites were victorious.

The Conservative party chairman, Lord Hailsham, was jubilant.

"I thought the uncommitted would suddenly make up their minds," he said. "That is happening. The gap is widening."

There were the usual victory predictions from the two party leaders.

"We are going wo win," said Macmillan.

"I am confident we shall win," said Labor chief Hugh Gaitskell, but he added, "To be sure of a good majority, we shall need a really high poll."

Problem of Trained Personnel Is Cited At Nurses' Confab

CINCINNATI (AP) — The problem of trained personnel, particularly nurses, is not exclusive with Ohio's mental institutions, says Mrs. Elizabeth Porter, R.N., president of the Ohio State Nurses' Assn.

Addressing more than 1,000 delegates to the OSNA annual convention here Wednesday night, Mrs. Porter, dean of nursing at the Francis Payne Bolton School of Nursing at Western Reserve University, Cleveland, urged Gov. Michael V. DiSalle to widen the scope of his current investigation to include state institutions not restricted to care of the mentally ill.

by Poulenc; and concluding with "That Old Black Magic."

"LaValse" by Ravel completed the printed program, but repeated applause brought forth three encores, the melodic "Siciliano" by Back, "Liebesfreud" by Kreisler, and the favorite, Ravel's "Bolero."

Members of the local association are next invited to the first concert of the Alliance Association season the afternoon of Nov. 8, in Alliance High School. Coleman Blumfield, pianist, will present a recital. The next concert in Salem Junior High auditorium will be the evening of Dec. 7, when the Chanticleers, a male quartet, appear.

shoulders ached after the crash, which shook up all the youngsters. They were to be examined at the hospital.

The rear of Anderson's sedan was demolished and the left front of the bus and the front of the truck were damaged, the Patrol said.

One-way traffic was directed past the scene until the bus continued on to the school with the children. Officers are still investigating.

Malloy Is Honored At Firemen's Dinner

About 130 officials, firemen and friends met at the Salem Fire Department Wednesday night to honor retired fire captain Charles A. Malloy, who resigned from the force Sept. 17 after 20 years service.

Capt. Malloy, who attended the dinner with his family and other relatives, was presented with several gifts including a gold fireman's badge. Both city and county officials voiced praise for his ability and work.

Malloy, in his speech of thanks, told the group that "all the credit" belongs "to the 11 men in white," the members of the fire department, who made his job easy.

30 Blood Donors Are Still Needed

Thirty more blood donors are needed to insure the collection of 125 pints, Salem's quota, at Friday's visit of the Cleveland Regional Bloodmobile here in the First Methodist Church from 10 to 4 p.m.

Anyone able to volunteer as a donor is asked to call for an appointment by dialing ED 2-5219, Red Cross headquarters, or Mrs. James Gregg, recruiting chairman at ED 2-4488.

Miss Hazel Linn, executive director of the Red Cross Chapter, is hopeful that Salem will reach its quota Friday since it failed to to do at the August visit of the bloodmobile, when only 105 pints were collected.

Midway, Guilford, Mt. Nebo, Salem and Perry Grange women will provide, prepare and serve the lunch to the donors and workers in charge of the blood program.

Transistor Radios Taken by Shoplifters

Police today are looking for two shoplifters who walked out of the Strouss-Hirshberg Appliance store at 233 S. Ellsworth Ave. with three transistor radios valued at $125.85.

The loss, believed to have occurred Monday, was reported to police late yesterday morning by George Erhart, store manager.

He told police two negroes had entered the store Monday. While one was being shown a deep freeze unit, the other wandered around the store.

In other calls to the police, Robert Campanell of 604 Euclid St. reported someone had thrown nails under the wheels of his and his wife's autos Wednesday night and that four flat tires had resulted.

Tom Hone of 745 E. 5th St. reported somebody had jacked up the right front side of his truck and stole a tire and wheel. The truck had been parked behind the Arrow Hardware Store at 495 W. State St. overnight.

3 Members of Fair Board Are Re-elected

The three incumbents received the highest votes for the three seats on the Columbiana County Fair Board at the annual election held Wednesday in the secretarys office at the Fairgrounds, according to Clarence Crosser, secretary.

Galen Greenisen of Perry Township, Richard Stamp of Butler Township and V. B. Lemley of Center Township received the most votes. Elwood Cope on East Palestine - New Waterford Rd., was the other person running.

There were 83 ballots cast during the five hours of voting, Crosser said.

BONDS ARE FORFEITED

LISBON — Three truckers cited for overloads forfeited bonds totaling $75 in Mayor John Todd's court Wednesday when they failed to appear for scheduled hearings.

Clyde H. Posey ,46, of Lisbon, $25 bond; Carl E. Spack, 31, of Salem RD 3, $25 bond; and Edwin W. Alexander, 25, Salem RD 2, $25 bond. All were cited by the State Patrol.

Firestone Bank In Lisbon To Show Off New Facilities

LISBON — President L. S. Firestone announced today that remodeling and modernization work at the Firestone Bank will be completed by Saturday in time for open house from 3 to 9 p.m. that day. Souvenirs will be distributed to all.

The Charles Spokane Bank Building and Equipment Co. of Pittsburgh did the designing and contracting for the work.

An addition of 700 square feet was made on the north side of the building. This enables the bank to have seven teller windows instead of four, doubles the size of the lobby, the working area and bookkeeping department.

Double doors of herculite are centered in the modern front of green pearl granite imported from Belgium, with floor to ceiling windows framed in aluminum on either side.

A new lighted sign of cast aluminum to match the windows has been installed on the front of the bank and the old sign moved to the northeast corner at the rear.

A walk-up window on the east side, with parking space for window customers, provides service for those who find it more convenient.

The interior of the bank has a lobby floor of travertine, a ceiling of acoustical tile with recessed lights, and counters are of pink marble imported from Norway.

In addition to a larger main vault, a fire-proof storage vault has been provided in the rear for the bank's books and records. Officers' work space, private conference room and interior trim are paneled in walnut.

The bank shows deposits of $1,025,557 in 1919; $1,368,808 in 1929; $1,198,760 in 1939; $2,987,835 in 1949 and should be near $4,674,048 today, President Firestone said.

Industrial Payrolls Show Further Decline

The effect of the nation-wide strike in the basic steel industry is reflected today in the September industrial employment and payroll figures compiled by the Salem Chamber of Commerce.

Figures for September, released today, show the gross pay of the factory workers is $1,281,487 — some $14,122 less than the previous month.

During September 4,130 industrial workers were on the job, according to the Chamber report. This is a slight decline compared with the 4,158 employed during August.

Factory workers pay amounted to $1,447,626 in January when there were 4,229 persons sharing this income.

May and June were the only months to surpass January's figures. During May the workers earned $1,466,482 and they made a little more in June as they took home $1,688,936.

Democrats to Present Platform on Monday

The Democratic party platform for the Nov. 3 municipal election will be presented at a public rally Monday night at the CIO hall on Prospect St., a spokesman for the party said today.

Candidates for election on the Democratic slate met Wednesday night at the union hall to iron out differences in the platform in a meeting called by City Chairman Harold Astry, who is Third Ward Democratic councilman.

Order

ley procedure is designed to provide a cooling-off period during which negotiation are to continue. But unless the strike is settled before the end of that period, the longshoremen will be free to walk out again and the government can do nothing except by mediation.

The union set out to win a 40-cent hourly wage increase along with increased pension and other welfare benefits. The old New York contract provided a basic wage of $2.80 an hour.

The ship lines offered a 30-cent hourly package increase over a three-year period in return for more leeway in using automation for cargo handling. But the union contends that would cut down the amount of work available.

Shippers

Corp's Pittsburgh Steamship Division said it would take "three or four days" to get the largest ore fleet on the lake operating. He said all 57 vessels would be pressed into service, although prior to the strike four of the ships were out of use.

The 12,000 lakes seamen who work the ore boats will be hurrying to build up stockpiles before the winter ice closes shipping channels. Last year the last ore cargo cleared Duluth Dec. 1.

But normal procedure is to begin winter tie-up of the fleet several weeks earlier, and only a small part of the total fleet operates into December. Weather begins getting rough next month. And once freezing temperatures take hold, loading and unloading becomes a slower process.

Whether there will be insufficient stockpiles to carry the steel industry until the first 1960 ore shipments begin docking next April is problematical.

If the steel strike resumes after an 80-day interruption, of course, there will be little ore consumption until it is settled.

Increased imports of foreign steel as well as foreign iron ore from Labrador and Venezuela have the effect of stretching out present stockpiles of ore.

These stockpiles stood at 49,976,446 gross tons on July 1, two weeks before the strike started.

Ore receipts at U. S. and Canadian ports to Oct. 1 have amounted to 37,134,135 gross tons, the American Iron Ore Assn. reported earlier this week. That was only 2,649,382 tons under the 1958 season total to Oct. 11.

However, 1958 was a recession year in which ore consumption was down. By contrast, in the first half of 1959, with mills booming to build up steel inventories in anticipation of a strike, consumption of ore was high.

Last January furnaces used about 10- 1-3 million tons—the first time in 13 months consumption had exceeded 10 million tons a month. Last June the furnaces melted up 11,658,722 tons of ore.

During the first half of this year, the steel industry had to dip heavily into ore stockpiles to maintain record operating rates. And a wildcat strike of seamen on the ore vessels cut the flow of ore early in July prior to the walkout of steelworkers at the mills.

THEFT IS REPORTED

LISBON — Deputies are investigating the theft of a 6-volt battery, gasoline, six wrenches, and a grease gun from the Rock Camp Mining Co. of Wellsville RD 1, according to Sheriff Russell J. VanFossan.

Paul Posey of Columbiana, owner of the mining company, reported the theft to the sheriff's office Wednesday at 5:30 p.m.

Patton Cites Steel Imports In Address

CLEVELAND (AP) — The amount of steel imported in the first half of this year, if taken on an annual basis, "would be roughly equivalent to the total 1958 steel output of one of the nation's larger steel companies," Thomas F. Patton said today.

Patton president of Republic Steel Corp., made another in a series of radio broadcasts to argue management's side of the current steel strike issues. His talk was carried by stations in seven cities with Republic Steel plants.

"To produce that much steel (the two million tons imported in the first half of 1959)1 this company employed 37,000 persons," Patton said. He added that Republic "paid out 269 million dollars in wages, salaries and benefits. . . and 55 million in federal taxes.

"That gives you an idea of what we're losing to foreign producers in jobs in wages and in taxes," he said.

Increased tariffs are not a solution to the problem, Patton said. Instead he called for "a halt to the widening gap between wages paid steelworkers here and abroad" and "intensified research efforts to advance development of new and better types of steel and cheaper and better methods of producing it"

U.S. Is Lagging In Its Space Activities

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — The United States would need 3 to 5 years catch up if Russia halted its space program today, the Army's missile chief said here Wednesday night.

Maj. Gen. John B. Medaris said the U.S. is not lagging in missile development but in space activity. He expressed the opinion that America should go at full speed to match the Russians.

Gen. Medaris spoke at a press conference and the Springfield Executive Club. In command at the Redstone Arsenal in Alabama, he considers Springfield his home.

Medaris said America is going backward in education, citing citing high school courses given in college. But he believes the U. S. has all the knowledge needed to duplicate Russian achievements.

Employes Are Feted By Salem China Co.

The Salem China Co. Tuesday evening held a dinner at the Lape Hotel for members of the firm's bisque, brushing and dipping departments. About 40 persons attended.

Harrison Keller, president of the company, presented a tea service to Myrtle Forney on her retirement. She was an employ in the brushing department for 31 years.

Talks were given by J. A. Armstrong, sales manager; John Roberts, assistant superintendent; and J. W. Greenwood, superintendent. J. E. Wilson, chairman of the planning committee, presented prizes to James Clutter, William Alton, William Mercer, Lois Carter, Margaret Ritchie, Dale Leyman, Regina Leyden and Dave Sanders.

Son Joins His Father; Nabbed for Forgery

DETROIT, Mich. (AP)—David P. Russell Jr. was a baby when his father was sent to prison for life in 1931 for killing another man over a debt.

Russell, now 29, pleaded guilty Wednesday to forging his father's name to $1,350 in U.S. Savings Bonds. The father, 59, had bought the bonds with money earned from shining shoes at Southern Michigan Prison.

Young Russell, a service station attendant, said he cashed the bonds and used the money to pay debts. He was released on $1,000 bail pending sentence in U.S. District Court.

MRS. HANKINS SENTENCED

JEFFERSON, Ohio (AP)—Mrs. Earl C. Hankins, 49, will begin serving a 1-to-20-year term in Marysville Reformatory for Women today. She was sentenced Wednesday after pleading guilty of first - degree manslaughter in shooting death of her husband last July 26 in their Conneaut home. The charge was reduced from second-degree murder. Her husband, 54, was business manager of the Ashtabula Star-Beacon.

2 OHIOANS NAMED

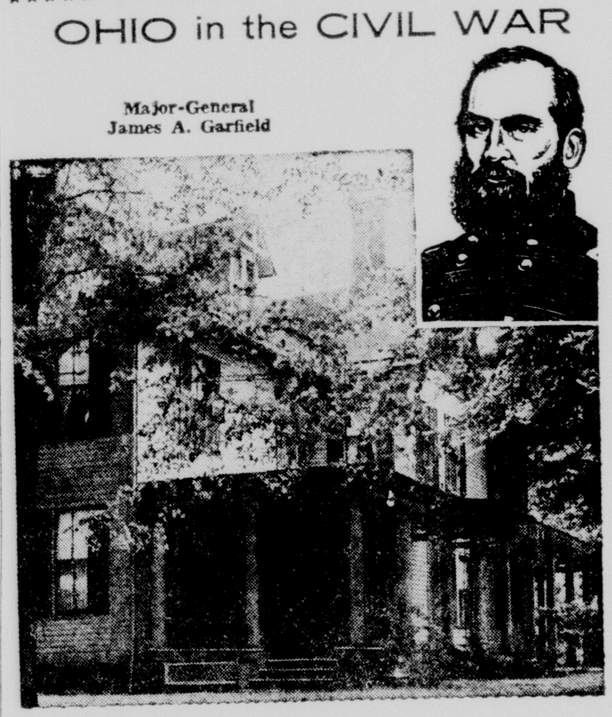

ATLANTIC, CITY, N. J. (AP)—H. L. Thompson of Toledo, Ohio, and A. B. Lewis of Columbus, Ohio, were elected vice presidents of the National Hardware Assn. here Wednesday. Norman F. Luekens of Cleveland was named to the executive committee.

INJURED CRITICALLY

WADSWORTH, Ohio (AP)—Harlan Thompson Jr., 5, suffered critical injuries Wednesday when burned on his arms, legs and abdomen while trying to fill his father's cigarette lighter. The fluid spilled on his clothes and ignited when he flicked the lighter.

OHIO in the CIVIL WAR

James Abram Garfield is best known as a martyred President of the United States who was born in a log cabin at Orange, a suburb of Cleveland. Most Americans know that he worked on a canal boat as a youth and was president of Hiram College in Ohio.

Probably not many think of him as a soldier, but he made a fine record in the Union army durng the Civil War and later became one of the five Ohio officers in the Union army to become President of the United States.

At the beginning of the Civil War Garfield was commissioned Lt. Col. in the 42nd Oho Volunteer Infantry. In command of Ohio troops at Louisville, Ky., at the battle of Middle Creek, Ky., at Shiloh and at Corinth, he rose in rank to Major General. With the Army of the Cumberland, he was chief of staff under Maj. Gen. Williams S. Rosecrans, another Ohio general who served with distinction throughout the war.

Present Garfield's impressive tomb in Lakeview Cemetery in Cleveland is visited bythousands each year as is his home at nearby Mentor, which is now a museum maintained by the Ohio Historical Society and the Western Reserve Historical Society.

Ann Landers Describes American Teen-Agers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Newspaper columnist Ann Landers described the American teenager here Wednesday night, drawing her information from the letters used in her syndicated column.

She delivered her remarks to the closing session of the Ohio Congress of Parents and Teachers, Inc.

All the letters she receives are taken seriously, the columnist told the delegates.

Earlier in the day new officers of the congress were installed.

Columbus Mental Hospital Cleans Up

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Workers are cleaning up the Columbus State Hospital following Gov. Michael V. DiSalle's cleanup-paintup order of last week, DiSalle said Wednesday.

The governor ordered a cleanup at two Columbus mental institutions following a surprise inspection.

A report from Robert Dean, assistant to Dr. Robert A. Haines, director of mental hygiene, did not indicate work had begun at the Columbus State School, DiSalle said.

The governor said it might be possible to use prisoners from Ohio correctional institutions for the work. DiSalle said boys from an honor camp are used at the Mount Vernon institution with "good results."

The governor also said Wednesday he had received a report from Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy on investigation into alleged gambling in Stark County. However, there was "nothing for publication," he said.

Morse Won't Back Kennedy In Election

CLEVELAND (AP) — Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore), silent on whom he prefers as Democratic presidential nominee next year, says flatly he is opposed to Sen John F. Kennedy (D-Mass).

Morse told an interviewer here Wednesday he is against the Massachusetts senator on two grounds —his role in passage of the Landru -Griffin labor reform bill and "during the time of McCarthyism, Kennedy's countenance was no profile in courage."

That last remark was a not so subtle reference to Kennedy's Pulitzer Prize book, "Profiles in Courage" which dealt with a handful of U. S. senator: who displayed courage in the face of unpopularity.

Of the labor reform bill passed by the last session of Congress, Morse said "He (Kennedy) had a lot of responsibility in its passage."

On the issue of McCarthyism, Morse commented: "Kennedy was a silent number when liberals should have been talking."

As usual, Morse, a former Republican, had biting words for President Eisenhower.

Morse was here for a non-political speech at an Israel bond rally.

GOP Again Talking About 'Liberation'

WASHINGTON (AP) — American foreign policy should give top priority to "peaceful liberation" of captive peoples from Communist domination, a Republican study committee said today.

"We must encourage and exploit any weakening of the bonds that tie the satellites to Moscow," said the 40-member committee, named last March to recommend long range goals for the GOP.

It thus sounded the "liberation" note that formed a prominent part of the Republican party's 1952 platform, but which administration foreign policy pronouncements have soft-pedaled in recent years. The committee, however, was careful to quality its liberation proposal with the words "peaceful" and "nonviolent."

The group, called the Committee on Program and Progress, also endorsed a proposed international agreement for the demilitarization of outer space.

Its 8,500-word report on "national security and peace," made public by the Republican National Committee, is a comprehensive statement on foreign and defense policies, recommended as guide lines for future party planning.

In the foreign affairs field, the report favored (1) progressive shifting of foreign economic aid from government grants to private investments and loans, (2) conditional trade with Communist states that will "help thaw the cold war," and (3) creation of an emergency military force by the United Nations in the event of crisis.

U.S. Nuclear Men Leaving For Russia

WASHINGTON (AP)—A group of top U.S. nuclear experts leaves today for the Soviet Union, starting an exchange of visits and information with Soviet scientists.

The visits may be the forerunner of an increased exchange of nonmilitary atomic information. But neither of the hosts is expected to disclose any new information during the tours.

Chairman John A. McCone of the Atomic Energy Commission will head a delegation of six experts leaving for Moscow late today. Prof. Vasily S. Emelyanov, Soviet director of peaceful uses of atomic energy, is expected to bring a group of Soviet specialists here next month.

The exchanges were arranged by McCone and Emelyanov while the Soviet scientist was here last month with Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Making the 10-day trip with McCone will be Dr. John H. Williams, an AEC member; Dr. Frank K. Pittman, director of the AEC's Division of Reactor Development; Dr. Alvin Weinberg, director of Oak Ridge National Laboratory; Dr. Lyman Spitzer Jr., director of thermonuclear research, Princeton University; and Dr. Kenneth Pitzer, dean of the College of Chemistry, University of California.

16 SUPERLATIVE NEW CHEVROLETS FOR 1960!

CHEVROLET

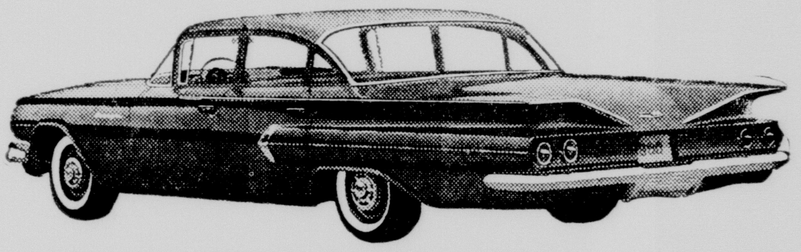

Nearest to perfection a low-priced car ever came!

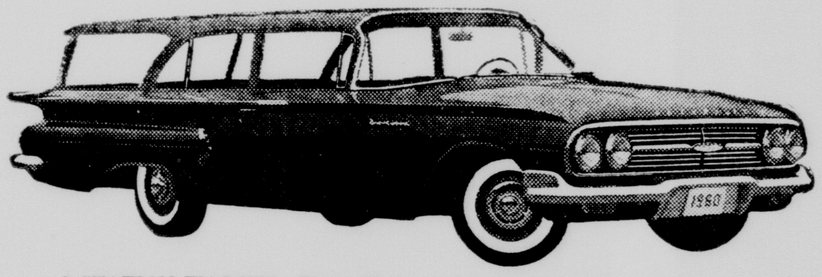

4 IMPALAS—Nowhere else in the low-price field will you find luxury like this. These fresh, fashionable Impalas—most elegant of all the superlative '60 Chevrolets—are all the car you ever yearned for. Each embodies distinctive treatment inside and out, with triple-unit rear lights, fingertip door releases and safety-reflector armrests. Besides the Impala sport sedan above, there are a convertible, sport coupe and 4-door sedan.

4 BEL AIRS—Sumptuous as these Bel Airs are to behold, they're priced just above Chevy's thriftiest models. And, like all Chevies, they give you a choice of two of the thriftiest engines going as standard equipment—the famed Hi-Thrift 6 and a new Economy Turbo-Fire V8 that gets up to 10% more miles out of a gallon of regular while giving you more "git" at normal speeds. Besides the 4-door Bel Air sedan above, there are a 2-door sedan, sport sedan and sport coupe

3 BISCAYNES—These (though you'd never know to look at them) are the lowest priced of the superlative '60 Chevrolets. They bring you the same basic beauty and relaxing roominess as the other models. And, like all Chevies, they ride on cradle-soft Full Coil suspension, isolated from road shock and noise by thicker, newly designed body mounts. Along with the 4-door Biscayne sedan above, you have your choice of a 2-door and a utility sedan.

6 STATION WAGONS—These Chevy wagons are stunningly styled to carry you away. And they've got the kind of cargo space (over 10 ft. from the back of the front seat to the tip of the tailgate) to carry away most anything you want to take with you. Besides that thrifty 2-door Brookwood above, you have your choice of a 4-door Brookwood, 4-door Parkwood, 9-passenger Kingswood and the nifty Nomad.

Injuries Plague Both Salem, Ambridge for Friday Tilt

Coaches Making Lineup Changes

Harshman, Petrucci Are Sidel ned

Injuries to key players have caused both the Ambridge and Salem coaches to make some switches in their starting lineups for Friday's game in the Pennsylvania city.

Guard Fred Harshman, Salem's leading tackler, injured a leg in practice Monday and may sit out the entire game. He dressed for practice Tuesday but his injury made him practically useless in drills and he retired to the sidelines.

Veteran Bob Lambert, who just returned to action last week after recovering from a broken wrist, will take over at Harshman's starting guard slot.

Salem's injury prone right end, Tony Petrucci, is still hobbled by a bad back and will be out of the starting lineup against Ambridge. Petrucci, an excellent blocker who gives everything he has on every tackle and block, was shaken up again in practice this week and is almost immobilized by the rolls of tape the trainers have wrapped around him.

DON DAVIDSON, a better pass receiver and stronger defensive performer than Petrucci, has gotten the starting nod from Coach Earle Bruce at right end. Davidson, a junior, was the outstanding lineman in Salem's 32-0 victory over Canton Timken here last week.

Coach Mike Sebastian of Ambridge reports that his 215-pound right guard, Dick Shimrak, has bd leg and will miss the Salem game.

Shimrak's place will be taken by Steve Simko, a 195-pound senior who has been the regular right tackle. Big Mike Burke, a 200-pound senior who has been a regular only on defense, will go both ways at right tackle against the Quakers.

Left halfback Fred Malins, 160-pound sophomore, hurt his leg earlier in the season and has been an off and on performer since. He is in the starting lineup for Friday.

THE BRIDGERS' regular left end, Pat Albright, is in the coach's dog house after being caught holding on some key situations in last week's 12-6 victory over Beaver Falls. The 160-pound junior will be replaced in the starting lineup on Friday by Ken Towcimak, 190-pound senior. Towcimak has also seen some action at tackle.

The Scarlet and Gray make two lineup changes when the defensive unit takes over. Ed Kamit, 160-pound senior comes in at quarterback and Fred Fedorko, 165-pound junior takes over a linebackler slot.

Salem's line will average 181 pounds per man and Ambridge's 189. The Quakers will have a slight (169-164) weight advantage in the backfield.

Ambridge's offense to date has been a one man show. Their pride and joy is Leonard Chiaverini, a 175-pound senior. He has been particularly effective on punt and kickoff returns where he has registered some long touchdown runs.

CHIAVERINI HAS good speed and prefers to run from a halfback slot. However, Coach Sebastian inserted him at fullback after the regular at that position was knocked out of action by a hernia operation. The switch has proved successful as the Bridgers have won three of four games with Chiaverini at fullback. Last year Ambridge won only one game all season.

Chiaverini's ability is no secret to Salem coaches. The Quakers showed that they could defend against a passing attack against Timken last week. Unless Ambridge switches tactics it will be the middle of the Salem line that gets the workout this week.

Salem's ace open field tackler, Ron Janovec, will get his stiffest test in trying to stop Chiaverini on the kickoff and punt returns.

Salem is expecting Ambridge to open up their passing attack a little more than they have the last three games. Quarterback Dennis Melnich hasn't thrown much since their opening 48-0 win over Erie Strong Vincent. He did throw for one touchdown in the 20-13 loss to New Castle.

THE PENNSYLVANIA rules, which differ somewhat from those in Ohio, shouldn't be a determining factor in the game unless the contest is close. There are no two-point conversions in Pennsylvania and this may bring about a change in strategy in Salem's point-after-touchdown attempts. The Quakers on all but two occasions this year have gone for the two-pointers.

As for the rules that allow two forward passes on the same play and make the quarterback an eligible pass receiver, the Quakers could conceivably out Pennsylvania the Pennsylvanians. Salem will not go to Ambridge without such plays in their basket of tricks. The question is, will they use them.

Salem's experiment with the "lonely end" in last week's game with Timken was obviously for the Ambridge scouts. Davidson played lonely end on the first two plays of the game and then went back to his conventional spot for the remainder of the game. Timken ignored him on both plays and so did the Salem quarterback.

Ambridge coaches must figure out whether the lonely end was strictly a one-game stunt to confuse them or whether Salem showed them just two plays with intentions of developing it further this week.

SALEM WILL be making one of its rare appearances against a Pennsylvania team Friday. Salem has never played Ambridge.

Sharon, which trounced Salem 42-0 in 1937, was the last Keystone state team to play the Quakers. Salem has a reputation for rolling over and playing dead for Pennsylvania teams.

In eleven games played since 1948, Salem has won two, tied one and lost eight. In fact, Salem hasn't scored a point against a Pennsylvania team in the last six tries. They have been shutout in eight of the 11 games. Salem did manage a 7-0 win over Beaver Falls in 1912.

This year could be a different story. The Quakers haven't yielded a point in three games while rolling up a total of 122 of their own. Ambridge has given up 33 points while scoring 99.

Salem scouts say the Bridgers are better than the three teams the Quakers have faced thus far. It should be pointed out, however, that the team which came closest to beating Salem never had possession of the ball inside the Quakers' 42 yard line.

Boilermaker Quarterback Out for Season

Wisconsin, Purdue Clash Tops Weekend Big 10 Slate

By The Associated Press

Can the nation's seventh-ranked offense overcome the eighth-ranked defense? Will the top pick for Big Ten honors beat the No. 2 choice? Wisconsin and Purdue will supply the answers when they meet Saturday and they may spell out R-O-S-E B-O-W-L.

Wisconsin is picked to win the Big Ten crown and the trip to the Rose Bowl. Purdue was picked to be runner-up.

Wisconsin's run for the roses could come to a screeching halt with a loss, or it could go right on until the Badgers meet Northwestern, the other contender, Nov. 7 for what may be the privilege to spend New Year's Day in the Rose Bowl.

Purdue, which does not meet Northwestern, could keep right on going with a victory. But the Boilermakers realize that their hopes may have ended last Saturday when quarterback Ross Fichtner broke a shoulder. He is through for the year.

Five members of Princeton's team were in the infirmary because of an unidentified virus. One was tailback Hugh Scott, still expected to start against Penn Saturday.

Clemson lost No. 1 center Paul Snyder with a torn ligament in his leg as the Tigers prepped for North Carolina State. Colorado lost its top end, Chuck McBride, with a neck injury. He will miss Saturday's game with Kansas State.

Guards ob Longfellow, Regie Coustillac and Paul Hodge, and fullback Tom Cunningham are doubtful starters for Pitt against Duke this Saturday.

Mt. Union Grid Losses Blamed On Inexperience

ALLIANCE — How can you win ball games when at times eight members of your defensive unit are freshmen?

This is the question that has been bothering the Mount Union coaching staff, as well as many of their loyal followers. The past three weekends in a row the Purple Raiders have fallen to defeat, not because of poor offense, but mostly because of lack of defensive experience and ability.

When you put the experience, and knowledge, of a senior against that of a freshman you can hardly expect the freshman to show superiority. Saturday, as the Scots of Wooster literally knocked the props from under the Raiders, this was the case.

The Mounties received the worst physical beating of the season as they came up with two injuries which place two freshman standouts on the doubtful list for this week's game against Ohio Wesleyan.

As for this week's prospects against the strong Wesleyan team, Coach Duke Barret had this to say, "They are not only big and strong, but very good offensively and defensively, with their main threat being a powerful defensive unit.

This statement was proved to the very letter as the Battling Bishops rolled over Akron 14-0 in a game which saw Wesleyan in complete control of the game.

Wesleyan has the brilliant running of All-Conference Dick DeHaven, who is now playing at halfback along with the power of blockbuster fullback Jay Farar, a 200-lb. junior. The Bishops have beaten the Raiders in every meeting on record dating back to 1947.

Future of County Softball League Appears In Doubt

The newly-formed Columbiana County Softball League appears to be on shaky grounds.

Dave Brisken, Salem Amateur Softball Association official, said the league has apparently fallen through. Brisken reported that no one showed up at a meeting called by him here Wednesday night to complete organization of the eight-team league.

"Unless we try again in the spring," there will be no county softball league next year," Brisken commented.

The league was formed three weeks ago when six teams indicated they would take part. The teams included two from East Liverpool and one each from Salem, East Palestine, Lisbon and Beloit.

Last night's meeting was called to discuss the addition of two more teams to complete the eight-team circuit.

Each of the teams was to have played a home and home series with the other seven clubs. Brisken planned to manage the Salem entry.

Football Rules In Pennsylvania Differ

Salem's football game at Ambridge Friday will be played under Pennsylvania high school rules which differ somewhat from Ohio rules. Some of the major differences are listed below:

1. Any number of substitutes may enter the game whenever the ball is dead.

2. Any kick becomes a touchback when it touches anything while the ball is on or behind the receiver's goal line. Ohio officials interpret this to mean that a ball kicked into the end zone may not be returned by a ball carrier.

3. A fumble or backward pass may be recovered and advanced by any player. Ohio rules do not allow the defensive team to advance a fumble once the ball has hit the ground.

4. A successful try for point-after-touchdown scores one point, no matter how it is made. Ohio allows two points for run or pass conversions.

5. A player may confer with his coach near the sideline during a charged time-out.

6. A T-formation quarterback is an eligible pass receiver.

7. Two forward passes may be thrown on the same play as long as both are thrown from behind the line of scrimmage.

Black Hawks Top New Yorkers 5-2

By The Associated Press

The talent-laden Montreal Canadiens swing into the 43rd National Hockey League season tonight as the strong favorites to wrap up their fifth straight championship and Stanley Cup.

Boston's Bruins, beaten by Toronto in the first round of the 1958-59 playoffs, furnish the opposition at Montreal.

Coach Toe Blake, who readily admits he has quite a hockey aggregation in the Canadiens, calls the Chicago Black Hawks the team he fears most. Last season the Canadiens eliminated the Hawks in the first round of the Stanley Cup competition after a fierce struggle.

The Hawks whipped the New York Rangers 5-2 in the league opener at Chicago Wednesday night.

Stanford Leads Three Categories

Big Five, Border Lead In Statistics

By The Associated Press

If you're looking for the individual leader in major college football this season, turn toward the Pacific Coast Big Five and the Southwest's Border Conference. They have them all.

The Stanford passing combination of chucker Dick Norman and catcher Chris Burford controls three categories in the season's second compilation by the NCAA Service Bureau — total offense, passing and pass receivership. Grover Garvin of California gives the Big Five another leader in punt returns.

Pervis Atkins of New Mexico State added the scoring lead to his first place in rushing last week. Joe Zuger of Arizona State is first in punting and Joe Allen of Hardin-Simmons in kickoff returns.

Norman ran up against last year's total offense champion, Dick Bass of College of the Pacific last Saturday and out-pitched him by 221 yards to 149. As a result, the Stanford junior now has this record:

Total offense: 594 yards on 82 plays.

Passing: 43 completions on 72 attempts for a .667 average and 576 yards.

Atkins is second in the total offense table with 486 yards, all gained by rushing, and Penn State passer Richie Lucas is third with 437 yards.

Norman has completed 14 more passes than runner-up Gale Weidner of Colorado, who moved up from fourth place last week, and has pitched for 165 more yards.

Burford has caught 17 passes, three more than Bill Carpenter, Army's lonely end, and Sammy Oates of Hardin-Simmons and is first in yardage gained by passing with 239.

Atkins is far ahead in running with 486 yards on 60 carries to 347 on 56 by Tom Watkins of Iowa State. His eight touchdowns and one extra point give him 49 points to 38 for Phil Lavoie of South Carolina.

Zuger averaged 52.5 yards on four punts against Montana State to bring this season average to 49.9 yards. Garvin has run back five punts for 116 yards and Allen has returned nine kickoffs for 205 yards.

OSU Schedules Light Football Drill Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio State's football drill today as the team prepares for its Big Ten opener here with Illinois Saturday will be lighter than the rough session Coach Woody Hayes put the Buckeyes through Wednesday.

Injured Jerry Fields returned to quarterback Wednesday buy Hayes was not certain whether he'd be a starter against the Illini.

Guard Don Young joined the injury list with a bruised knee.

Geese May Be Taken Starting Same Day

Ohio's Waterfowl Season Opens at Noon October 16

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohioans with Civil Defense training as aircraft spotters will have a decided edge over other Buckeye waterfowl hunters this fall.

New restrictions limit the taking of certain species of ducks and geese. That means a hunter must learn to recognize them before he shoots.

The necessity to recognize the birds before the nimrod blazes away, some hunters are observing wryly, may do as much to reduce the 1959 kill by the desired one-third as will the reduction of the season from 70 to 40 days. The waterfowl population is small because of poor nesting conditions last spring.

The Ohio waterfowl season opens at noon Oct. 1 and extends to sundown Nov. 24 for ducks and sundown Dec. 24 for geese. other hunting days, except for opening day, will start at sunrise.

It also is the responsibility of hunters to keep themselves posted on the exact minute of sunrise and sunset.

After familiarizing himself with the various species of waterfowl and arming himself with a sunrise-sunset chart, the would-be hunter must buy a $2 Ohio resident hunting license and a $3 federal duck stamp. The latter is on sale at post offices.

Ducks, coots and mergansers may be hunted from sunrise to sunset during the 40-day season. The daily bag limit is four ducks with a possesion limit of eight after the first day. There may be included in the bag or possession only one canvasback or one redhead or one ruddy duck, that is, a total of one duck of these three species. Only one hooded merganser and one wood duck may be included in the daily bag and possession limit.

The limit on American and red-breasted mergansers is five with 10 in possession after the first day.

Geese may be taken from noon Oct. 16 through Dec. 24 in an unreduced hunting season. Goose numbers are at a satisfactory level so last year's regulations were contitued.

The daily or possession limit on geese is set at five, and may not include more than (a) two Canada geese or (b) two white-fronted geese or (c) one Canada goose and one white-fronted goose.

Pep Rally At Leetonia Set For Tonight

LEETONIA — A bonfire and pep rally is planned for this evening at 8:15 at the local baseball field.

The high school band, cheerleaders football squad and the football queen and her court, together with the student body, will meet at the rear of the high school at 8 p.m. and proceed to the baseball field.

The rally is in preparation for the Leetonia - Minerva homecoming game here Friday night.

Going to Ambridge? Here's the Route

A recommended route for Salem fans traveling to the Ambridge game Friday is Route 14, which becomes Route 51 in Pennsylvania, to Rochester, Pa., and then Route 88 to Ambridge. Ambridge is 8½ miles from Rochester.

The stadium is on Route 88 (Duss Ave.) on the right hand side of the street behind the high school. The stadium will be reached before coming to downtown Ambridge.

The stadium has 7,500 seats but as many as 10,000 persons have watched a game there.

Salem High Athletic Director Fred Cope reports that Salem has received another supply of reserved seat tickets which may be purchased at Heddleston's Drug Store or Fisher's News until 6 p.m. the night of the game. Game time is 8 p.m.

Erratic KSU To Face Miami On Saturday

After last week's 46-12 win over Baldwin-Wallace, Kent State football coach Trevor Rees said he'd have to wait awhile to find out how good his team really is.

Now, after a 46-0 loss to Ohio University, Rees' thoughts have wandered to the other extreme: Just how bad are the flashes?

Coach Rees will have another opportunity to rate his unpredictable chargers Saturday when Miami University invades Memorial Stadium.

More than 1,500 band members from 23 Northeastern Ohio high schools will be guests of Kent State at Saturday's game.

The bands, which feature 125 trombones, will open the day's festivities with a 10 a.m. parade through downtown streets, beginning at the corners of River and Main and winding their way up Summit St. to Memorial Stadium.

The high school musicians will join Kent's band in forming a giant KSU 1910-60 during halftime.

The following bands will participate: Amherst, Bloomingdale, Bristolville, Brookfield, Chagrin Falls, Chesterland, Freeport, Grafton, Howland, Jefferson Union, Jewett, Kent Roosevelt, Killbuck, Loudonville, Mentor, Niles, Ravenno, Southington, Westlake, Wickliffe, Liberty, Kent State and Struthers.

Chisox Picked to Win Today, Dodgers to Win Series

Snider Is Back In L.A. Lineup

Wynn, Podres In Starting Roles

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox had their backs against a wall as they pushed off on a tough comeback chore against the Los Angeles Dodgers today in the sixth game of the World Series.

After waiting 40 years to get into a series, the White Sox now must win the final two games to take the best-of-seven series. The Dodgers have a 3-2 lead in games and need just one more to put away their second title.

Early Wynn, the Sox's old man right-hander who won the opener, was Manager Al Lopez's pitching choice. He faced southpaw Johnny Podres, also 1-0 for this 56th World Series.

The White Sox, having barely survived the three-game set at Memorial Coliseum in Los Angeles, were favored at 11-10 to win today. But the Dodgers were 5-2 choices to take the series.

The White Sox insist that just being back home is all they need. The Coliseum was a place of horror for them, with the uncovered stands and white-shirted crowds hiding pitched, batted and thrown balls and puncturing the Sox defense.

The Dodgers, no better afield than the White Sox, had the advantage of mental adjustment to the makeshift ballyard.

At Comiskey Park, where they split the first two games, the batters have a fan-less, dark green background behind the pitcher. The fielders have a normal background of shaded grandstand.

For the sixth game, the Dodgers again had left-handed power man Duke Snider batting cleanup and playing center. He was benched the last three games with a chronic knee condition.

With Snider back, Manager Walt Alston jumped Gil Hodges, paired with the Duke as the only sluggers to hit 20 or more homers for the Dodgers this season, from sixth to fifth in the batting order. That dropped Norm Larker, another lefty swinger, to sixth.

Manager Al Lopez made no changes in the Sox lineup, retaining his platoon pattern against Podres. Bubba Phillips was at third and rookie Jim McAnany was in right.

Smith Calls Coliseum Nightmare

CHICAGO (AP) — Back home in a ball park more suited to their style of play, the Chicago White Sox were confident they would square the World Series at three games today.

"We got 'em right where we want 'em and that's right here," said outfielder Al Smith. "As long as I live I'll always have that Coliseum on my mind. It was a nightmare."

The White Sox took a rapid workout in Comiskey Park Wednesday but they were still grimbling and moaning about the sun and the white-shirted background in the Coliseum.

"We were hurt by that park," said Manager Al Lopez, "but we can win the thing here, now."

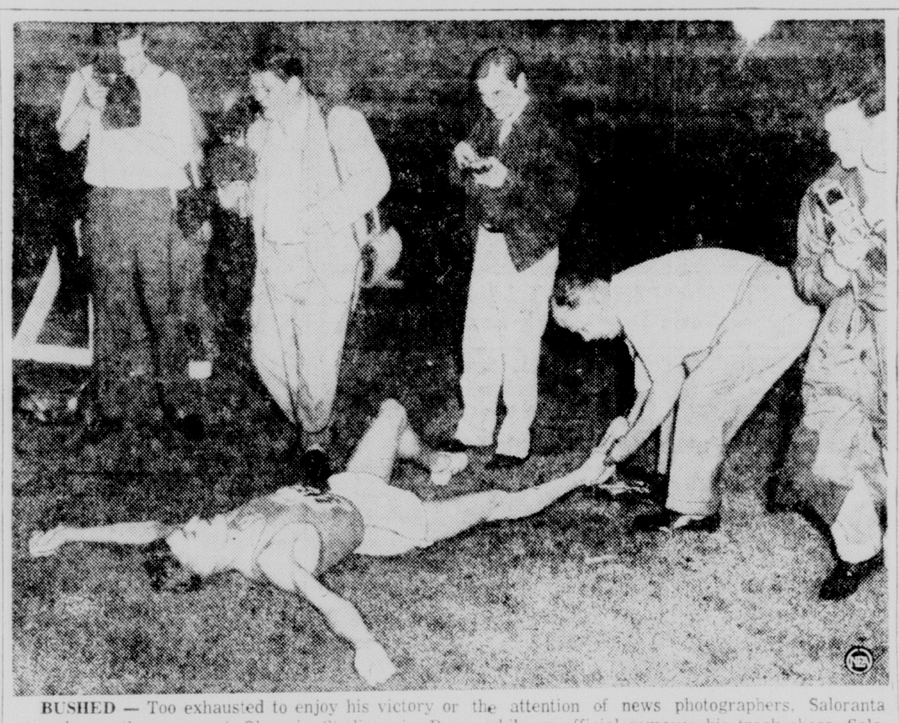

Lopez said he has been disappointed in his team's play but said much of the trouble was caused by the Coliseum "We can play better than we have, and I think we'll show it in these last two games."

Lopez, almost taking for granted that the Sox will win the sixth game, said:

"We're a defensive team and when we don't play good defensive ball we look bad. We weren't used to that park or that infield grass which slowed up the ball and then it would hop up when it hit the skin part."

If the White Sox should win the sixth game, Lopez said he would pitch either Dick Donovan, Billy Pierce or Bob Shaw in the finale Friday.

BUSHED — Too exhausted to enjoy his victory or the attention of news photographers, Saloranta sprawls on the grass at Olympic Stadium in Rome while an official removes his track shoes. Saloranta has good reason to feel finished. The Finn has just won a grueling 10,000-meter run in 29 minutes and 59 seconds. In a triangular meet between Italy, Germany and Finland, he bagged the 5,000 meters the day before. You could call that going the route.

Goshen High Host At Meeting Here

Inter-County Loop Split For Football Considered

There is a possibility that the 10-team Inter-County Athletic League will split into two divisions for the 1960 football season.

Representatives from each of the schools discussed the possibility at a dinner meeting held Wednesday night in Salem. The plan calls for breaking the league into divisions of six and four teams.

The purpose would be to place the four smaller schools in one division so that they would not have to compete against the larger schools.

A trophy would be awarded to the winning club in each division. The splitting of the league would be for football only.

No definite decision was reached on the split but league officials give the plan an excellent chance of being passed at the next meeting Dec. 16.

There are four teams in the league that have had trouble holding their own this year in football. After three weekends of football, none has yet to win a game. The teams are Goshen, Fairfield-Waterford, Jackson-Milton and Western Reserve. However, only one of Goshen's three defeats has been at the hands of an Inter-County League opponent.

The four teams mentioned are not necessarily the schools that would be placed in the four-team division.

Nov. 25 was set as the date for the Inter-County League basketball preview. All 10 schools will participate in the preview to be held at North Lima. Pairings will be determined by the number of male students in the schools.

Fifty-five persons attended Wednesday's meeting in the Lape Hotel. Goshen High School was the host. C. M. Barnhouse of Goshen is president of the league and H. M. Sheffer of Goshen, secretary-treasurer.

Schools in the league are Canfield, Fairfield-Waterford, Greenford, Jackson-Milton, Lowellville, McDonald, North Lima, Springfield Local, Western Reserve and Goshen.

Barons, Bears Play 1-1 Tie

By The Associated Press

The Providence Reds were alone at the top of the American Hockey League standings today, thanks to their second straight victory over the Quebec Aces and to fog in Hershey, Pa.

The Hershey Bears and the Cleveland Barons played to a 1-1 deadlock Wednesday night when a heavy indoor fog forced a halt to their opening game after 30 seconds of an overtime period. At times players could not be seen at all, and Dunc Fisher of the Bears came out of the haze to score the tieing goal with 14 seconds remaining in the final period. Greg Hicks scored for Cleveland in the first period.

The game was marred by five fights in the final period.

Providence defeated Quebec, 4-3, after winning their opener Tuesday night, 5-2.

Brennan Interviewed For Illinois Post

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Terry Brennan, former Notre Dame head football coach, has been interviewed for the head coaching job at the University of Illinois, the Illini sports publicity director disclosed.

On a Columbus radio sports show (WBNS) Charles Belatti said Wednesday that Brennan, along with former Illinois quarterback Perry Moss and present members of the Illinois coaching staff, is being screened for the job that Ray Eliot is quitting at the end of this season.

BOWL RECORD

University, Ala. — (NEA) — Alabama appeared in the Pasadena Rose Rowel six times, more than any other non-Pacific coast school.

NATIVE TEAM

University Park, Pa. — (NEA) —Halfback Jim Kerr, from St. Clairsville, O., is the only non-Pennsylvanian in Penn State's starting football lineup.

Hickerson To Sit Out Home Opener

CLEVELAND (AP) — Guard Gene Hickerson, whose ankle was gashed and sprained against the Chicago Cardinals last Sunday, is the only Cleveland Brown expected to sit out the home opener here Sunday against the New York Giants.

Absence of the big offensive guard from Mississippi has caused the shifting of Chuck Noll to the vacancy, with Galen Fiss likely to move into Noll's linebacker spot.

The 215-pound Noll, a bit light for guard, makes up for it with speed and alertness and has played the position before. When he came up from the University of Dayton in 1953, Noll won a spot at offensive right guard. He moved to linebacker for 1955-57 and went back to messenger guard last season.

For the National FFootball League's Eastern Division, this weekend's games are almost like the start of the new season all over again. All six clubs have a 1-1 record, and it's still too early to tell which team has passed the toughest hurdles in its first two tests.

PUCK PROOF — If no one objects, Jacques Plante will be the first National Hockey League goalie to wear a mask in championship action. The Montreal Canadiens' net keeper demonstrates the semi-finished Fiberglas protective covering. He twice suffered broken cheekbones through being hit by whizzing pucks.

FOOTBALL by Ped Grange

Question: If an offensive end catches a pass in the opponent's end zone, is tackled and fumbles, what is the ruling if the fumble is recovered by the defensive team?—Myron Blaum.

Answer: It is a touchdown. Once the player catches the ball in the end zone, the ball is automatically dead and ruled a touchdown. Any subsequent fumble is ignored.

Q. Which college team has won the most New Year's Day Bowl games?—Anthony Steller.

A. Southern California with nine in the Rose Bowl.

Q. Can the ball carrier be clipped?

A. No. Clipping is falling or throwing one's body across the back of the legs of an opponent other than the runner.

Snider Asked To Return To Lineup

CHICAGO (AP) — Duke Snider, gimpy knee and all, will be in the Los Angeles lineup today when the Dodgers face the Chicago White Sox in the sixth game of the World Series.

Snider asked Manager Walter Alston to play.

The Dodger team was flying from Los Angeles to Chicago Tuesday night after the White Sox's dramatic 1-0 victory.

"Skipper," Snider said to Alston, "put me in the lineup Thursday. I want to play against (Early) Wynn (Chicago starting pitcher). I feel in my own heart that I'm going to get a hit that will help us win."

Alston nodded understandingly.

"How's the knee?" he asked.

"Still not A-1," said Snider, "but good enough to play."

Thats how Alston came to announce that Snider would play today. He will bat in his usual cleanup spot. Gil Hodges will bat fifth with Norm Larker sixth. Otherwise, the batting order will be the same.

Isaly Co. Appeal Is Refused

Ohio's High Court to Hear Appeal From Youngstown Man

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The second-degree murder conviction of John N. Ross of Cleveland will stand, the Ohio Supreme court ruled Wednesday.

Ross, indicted for first-degree murder, was convicted on the lesser charge of slaying Russell Caputo on July 26, 1958. Ross said he shot Caputo after finding him making advances to his wife.

Among other cases the court:

Agreed to hear an appeal by the state from reversal of William Glaros' conviction on a charge of helping John Tobin Jr. of Youngstown embezzle $56,231. Tobin is serving 1-10 years in the Ohio Penitentiary. Glaros was indicted in 1957 on charges of aiding Tobin by having printed in his shop a fake newspaper account and other documents in settling traffic claims. An appellate court reversed and returned the case for additional proceedings because the jury inadvertently was not sworn.

Agreed to consider the appeal of Dollree Mapp of Cleveland from her conviction on a charge of possessing lewd books and pictures. She is serving a seven-year term in Marysville Reformatory for Women. She claims the material belonged to a former roommate.

Refused to consider the appeal of Isaly Dairy Co. from a $9,469 award obtained by Akron Milk Producers, Inc., for failure to pay a premium for milk above the federal milk marketing level after a price drop on Feb. 16, 1957, under a contract agreement.

Refused to review a Scioto County Court decision in a company merger action. The Scioto County Court said that Calvin Clarke and other shareholders of the Selby Shoe Co. Portsmouth, were entitled to the cash value of their stock holding following a merger Nov. 30, 1956, of Selby and six subsidiaries with Rockwood & Co., a Delaware firm. Rockwood offered $17.50 a share but Clarke and others demanded $35 a share.

Agreed to review a Huron County decision denying an award to the estate of Mary K. Gill on the ground she was a guest passenger with the Rev. Howard N. Porter of Bellevue when their car and another crashed, killing them and three others.

Let stand Fayette County decisions dismissing an action by Sam B. Marting against board members of Miami Trace Local School District in Miami County to enjoin a $1,652,500 school bond issue as a "frivolous, vexatious and sham proceeding."

GIFTS FOR THE GODS

THE ISLAND OF BALI is an enchanted place to its inhabitants, who believe that unseen gods are ever present. The Balinese accept these gods as if they were members of their own families. No occasion begins without the making of an offering to the spirits. The choicest foods are set aside for the unseen guests. After the gods have "eaten," the people consume the remainder of the food. Each year, the Balinese take their deities for a trip to the shore. There, the spirits and humans are cleansed and purified. Annual rite may mean a hike of 20 miles, but the Balinese enjoy it.

Some Balinese priests, like these, tell fortunes.

Woven baskets keep the offerings for the gods covered.

Women are preparing cooked rice to offer to the gods.

Rice Souffle Wins Plaudits

In the Guildhall of the Ambassador West Hotel in Chicago, the directors of the rice industry gave a harvest festival supper. Served with a flourish, it featured a souffle of saffron rice.

The occasion was the annual Newspaper Food Editors Conference. Here's the complete Harvest Festival Supper menu: Essence of Wild Pheasant, Kentucky Limestone Lettuce Salad Ambassador, Supreme of Duck au Grand Marnier, Souffle of Saffron Rice, Braised Endive au Vermouth, Baby Belgian Carrots, Fine Herbs, Rice Conde with Pineapple Flambe, Beverage.

The editors were told of the versatility of rice as an accompaniment to other foods—meats, fish, poultry, etc., also vegetables and fruits. The tables were decorated with sheaves of rice and chrysanthemums.

Never-Fail Saffron Rice Souffle

One-quarter cup butter or margarine, ¼ cup flour, 1 cup milk, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon powdered saffron, 4 eggs, separated; cup cooked rice.

Melt butter in saucepan. Stir in flour. Remove from heat and gradually blend in milk. Add salt and saffron. Gradually add saffron mixture to slightly beaten egg yolks. Stir in rice. Bea egg whites until stiff but not dry. Fold into rice mixture. Pour into an ungreased 2-quart casserole. Place casserole in a pan of hot water. Bake at 325 degrees F. for 1 hour.

HOUSEHOLD HINT

There are three ways of knowing whether a cake is well baked. The top surface should spring back, without leaving a dent, after being touched lightly. The cake should pull slightly away from the sides of the pan. A cake tester inserted in the center, should come out clean.

Strawberry Dessert

Ingredients: 1 package (10 ounces) frozen sliced strawberries, boiling water, 1 package (3 ounces) strawberry-flavored gelatin dessert, 1 container (8 ounces) plain yogurt.

Method: Thaw strawberries; drain thoroughly; there should be about ½ cup juice.

Add enough boiling water to the strawberry juice to make 1½ cups; reheat so mixture will be hot enough to dissolve gelatin but do not boil.

Pour hot strawberry mixture over gelatin; stir to dissolve; cool. Whisk in yogurt until blended. Put the drained strawberries into individual molds; add gelatin mixture.

Cover and chill until set. Unmold just before serving.

Don't let those good juices escape from that broiled steak! Use tongs to turn it.

Corn, Tuna Fish Souffle Is Good

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

For a luncheon or dinner, canned tuna combined with corn, or served with rice and a chili sauce, can provide a delicious one-dish meal.

Corn and Tuna Souffle

Three eggs, 1 can (1 pound) cream-style corn, ½ cup milk, ¼ teaspoon Tabasco, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon dry mustard, ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 2 teaspoons lemon junce, 2 cans (6½ or 7 ounces each) tuna, 1 cup buttered bread crumbs, 1 tablespoon grated Parmesan cheese .

Beat eggs; stir in corn, milk and Tabasco. Add salt, dry mustard, Worcestershire sauce and lemon juice; mix well. Stir in tuna. Turn into a 10 x 6 x 2-inch casserole. Sprinkle with buttered bread crumbs and Parmesan cheese. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 30 minutes.

Chili Tuna with Rice

Two cans (6½ or 7 ounces each) tuna, ¼ cup chopped onion, ½ cup diced green pepper, 3 tablespoons flour, ¾ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, 1½ cups milk, ¼ cup chili sauce, 3 cups hot cooked rice.

Drain oil from tuna; measure 3 tablespoons tuna oil into saucepan. Add onion and green pepper and cook until onion is tender, but not brown. Add flour, salt and mustard; stir to a smooth paste. Add milk and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Stir in chili sauce and tuna; heat. Turn rice on serving platter; spoon tuna mixture in center.

APPLESAUCE CAKE

Mrs. Joe Less, Washingtonville

½ c. shortening, 2-3 c. brown sugar, 1 t. baking powder,, 1 t. soda, ¼ t. salt, 2 c. flour, 2 whole eggs, 1 c. applesauce, ½ c. chopped nuts.

Cream the sugar and shortening. Add the sifted dry ingredients alternately with the eggs. Add applesauce and chopped nuts. Bake in greased loaf pan at 350 degrees for 50-55 minutes.

Cheddar Cheese Bread Is Choice Fare

There's a new star in the hot-bread heaven—a biscuit filled with cheese.

And what a biscuit—crusty brown on the outside, fluffy white inside!

So may ways to serve this dish. Snacktime first. This is the sort of munch that men take to. A stag party going on at your house with you relegated to the kitchen? Bake a batch of this quick skillet bread and serve it fresh from the oven.

Soup and salad planned for lunch? This bread is so interesting it will give a real fillip to both.

It's a bread that is simple to bake. No need to make the biscuit dough for it from scratch; a ix is used with fine results.

We do grate the cheese, for this recipe choosing a variety of cheddar that comes marked "very sharp."

Stuffed Cheese Bread

Ingredients: 6 teaspoons instant minced onion, 3 cups biscuit mix, 1 cup milk, 1½ cups (6 ounces) grated cheddar cheese, ½ cup mayonnaise, 3 tablespoons butter or margarine (melted).

Method: With a fork, stir 2 teaspoons of the onion into biscuit mix; stir in milk to make a soft dough. Turn out on prepared pastry cloth; divide dough in half. With floured hands, pat half of dough into a circle a little larger than the bottom of a black or enamel-coated iron skillet (9 inches by 2 inches).

Grease skillet well and place round of dough in it, having the dough extend about ¾-inch up the sides. Mix cheese, mayonnaise and 3 teaspoons of the remaining onion; spread over dough almost to edge.

Pat out remaining dough into another round, making it the size of skillet bottom. Place dough over filling; crimp edge and bottom layer together; dough will be soft as you do this. Brush top with some of the melted butter. Bake in a hot (400 degrees) oven 25 minutes.

Remove skillet from oven; brush bread with remaining melted butter and sprinkle with remaining 1 teaspoon onion.

Bake 3 to 5 minutes longer until onion is toasted.

Remove from oven; let stand 10 minutes so filling will set a bit; cut into wedges and serve warm. (Bread may be turned out of skillet and then cut.) Makes 6 servings.

Note: If an aluminum or steel skillet is used, increase oven heat to 425 degrees and use baking time given.

APPLE FONDANT CANDY

Mrs. C. E. Freeman, RD 1, Salem

1 c. applesauce, 1 c. water, 2 c. sugar, 2 t. vinegar; 2 drops red coloring, 1 t. butter.

Cook to soft ball stage, add red coloring.

Pour on greased platter. Cool to luke warm. Work with spatula until creamy. Add butter. Form a soft ball and spread on greased pan. When set, cut in squares. Place nut on each square.

JELLIED WALDORF SALAD

Mrs. C. E. Freeman, RD 1, Salem

2 c. diced unpeeled red apples, 1 c. finely chopped celery, 1 c. halved white grapes, ½ c. chopped English walnuts, 1 c. American cheese (grated), 2 T. mayonnaise, 3 t. sugar, ⅛ t. salt, 3 t. lemon juice.

1 pkg. lime gelatine, 1 c. boiling water, 1 c. cold water.

Dissolve gelatine in boiling water. Add cold water. Chill until as thick as eggwhite.

Sprinkle lemon juice on diced apples. Add the celery, grapes, and nuts. Sprinkle on the sugar and salt. Mix mayonnaise with fruit, mixing lightly. Cover bottom of ringmold with the gelatine, then spoon in the fruit mixture. Pour the remaining gelatine over the fruit and along the sides of greens and clusters of grapes. Makes 6-8 servings.

SPICY APPLE BARS

Mrs. Robert Knopp, RD 5, Salem

½ c. shortening, 1 c. sugar, 2 eggs, 1 c. sifted flour, 1 t. baking powder, ½ t. salt, 1 T. cocoa, 1 t. cinnamon, ½ t. numeg, ¼ t. cloves, 1 c. rolled oats, 1 ½ c. diced peeled apples, ½ c. walnuts chopped, confectioners sugar.

Cream shortening and sugar until light or fluffy. Beat in eggs. Sift together dry ingredients, add to creamed mixture. Stir in remaining ingredients. Spread into greased 9 x 13" pan. Bake in moderae oven 350 degrees about 25 minutes. Cool slightly, cut into bars and sprinkle with confectioners sugar.

Test for yeast dough: it has risen enough if, after pressing the surface lightly with a finger, a dent remains.

It's a good idea for expectant mothers to drink four cups of milk a day; nursing mothers need six cups.

Heating rolls? Drop them into a brown paper bag, twist the opening closed and place in a hot (about 425 degrees) for 10 minutes or s.

It's not necessary to preheat the oven when you are putting a roast into it.

Your cookies will have a good chance of browning evenly if you bake them on a sheet; this applies to drop, rolled and refrigerator cookies. Bar-type cookies usually have to be baked in cake pans with sides.

Check your range to make sur it is standing on a level floor if you want the best distrubution of heat.

Some housekeepers like to wax painted window wills and Venetian blinds because they say the waying makes dusting easy.

Rub split or quartered chidken with French dressing before broiling; frying-chicken pieces may be marinated in French dressing a couple hours and then broiled.

High School Choirs Open Fund Campaign

The Salem High School Choirs, under the direction of F. Edwin Miller, began their annual fund raising campaigns at kick-off meetings today.

This year members of the choirs are selling and renewing magazine subscriptions. Thirty - five per cent of each subscription will be retained by the vocal department.

The funds obtained from this drive will be used to purchase a hi-fi record player for the department.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Victor Riesel

BROOKLYN, U.S.A. — If anybody can beat automation, it's my new found "friend" and "news source," Tony Anastasio. "Tough Tony," now leader of the world's largest waterfront local, has beaten the machine, he says. For three years the machines have been working his great piers and for three years the 15,000 men on those giant docks have been working full time—despite automation.

"Tell you the truth, Victor," he says, "We need more men. Those machines, they're not so tought."

There's one thing about Tony's kind of union leader—ask them for details and they become shrewd knowledgeable economists in their field. What Tony did is national news at a moment when automation and the cutting of work forces are the issues behind the great industrial civil wars ripping the nation.

Tony, grinning as we talked about our old battles, reeled off some figures:

Three years ago, before the machine, men were loading bags of sugar much the same as the Vikings loaded their oar-driven vessels. T eBhrooklyn Longshoremen used work gangs of 29 men. Today, each group has been reduced to nine. The old gang handled 15 to 20 tons of sugar in bags each hour. Today the nine men work 60 to 70 tons an hour. They do this with an endless belt type of equipment which handles loose sugar.

Yet no dockwalloper has lost his job.

IN THE "OLD DAY,S" before mechanization, the Brooklyn gangs were 21 strong. Today they are still 21 strong. But now they load from 300 to 400 tons an hour—four and five times what they used to put aboard ship.

No one has lost his job.

Tony Anastasio reports that today the Brooklyn docks handle as much as 3½ million tons of cargo a year in containers. This means that where a hundred loose chunks were shouldered on men's backs or taken out of sling loads individually, they now are prepacked in one container and heaved aboard in one mechanical operation.

I asked Tony how come his men are fully employed. He said his docks are efficient and no shippers are running away to other ports or even to other countries on the continent to have their goods unloaded and then flown or railroaded in. The increased business, made more profitable by increased mechanization, in the long run means more jobs for his men despite the slashing in the time of individual loading.

But those in other ports along the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts who hit the docks with their strike last week don't think so. They say that mechanization — the coming of the machine—will wipe out the jobs of one out of every three Longshoremen.

Their problem is more colorful, especially in New York Port where they handle 16 billion dollars worth of ocean commerce annually but their problem is that of virtually every other union.

WHAT TROUBLES the International Longshoremen's Assn. is the spectre of the automated ship of the future. It will be so constructed that huge containers will fit right into the hold and on the decks.

The containers will be lifted onto the vessel in one operation. This will be done by a crane with a long arm-like mechanism. The Longshoremen call it the one-armed bandit.

Then there is loose or pulverized cargo. This type is loaded by an endless band on wheels. It is rolled up to the side of the ship. The side doors are opened. The loose cargo is scooped up by the mechanism. It is dropped into the hold, untouched by human hands.

How then will these hands earn the money to buy their daily bread? The Longshoremen have an answer. They want the hiring lists closed. They say to the ship owners, take advantage of the by-products of automation—the savings from less damaged cargo, less pilferage out of metal containers, less cargo lost and fewer shipments detoured.

But don't lay off any men.

Take this pattern. Use it on the next hundred strike cries. You'll be right.

Spaghetti Pleases Autumn Appetites

With cooler weather, appetites become lustier. Dishes like spaghetti and veal balls have great appeal. This recipe is excellent, and when served with a green salad or cole slaw and crusty bread, make a bountiful one-dish meal.

Spaghetti and Veal Balls (Makes 4 to 6 servings)

One-half pound ground veal, ½ pound ground pork, 1 clove garlic, minced; 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/16 teaspoon pepper, ¼ cup milk, 1 egg, beaten; ½ cup fine dry bread crumbs, ¼ cup fat, 1 tablespoon kitchen bouquet, ½ cup finely diced onion, 3½ cups canned tomatoes (1-pound, 13 ounce can), ¼ teaspoon marjoram, 1½ teaspoon salt, 1/16 teaspoon pepper, 3-ounce can chopped broiled mushrooms, 3 tablespoons tomato paste, 8 ounces egg noodles or spaghetti.

Combine meats, garlic, parsley, salt, pepper, milk, egg and bread crumbs. Mix thoroughly and shape into 16 small balls. Melt fat in skillet over moderate heat and add kitchen bouquet.

Add meat balls and brown on all sides. Remove meat balls to warm platter and add onion.

Saute until barely tender, about 5 minutes. Add tomatoes, majoram, salt, pepper and contents of can of mushrooms. Simmer slowly for about 30 minutes. Stir in tomato paste. Place meat balls in sauce and continue to cook 20 minutes longer. Meanwhile cook spaghetti or noodles until tender in boiling salted water. Drain and place in serving dish.

Pour sauce over spaghetti and toss lightly with 2 forks. Arrange meat balls over top. Serve immediately.

U. S. Department of Agriculture cooking experts suggest this cream of tomato soup recipe for fall meals:

Cream of Tomato Soup

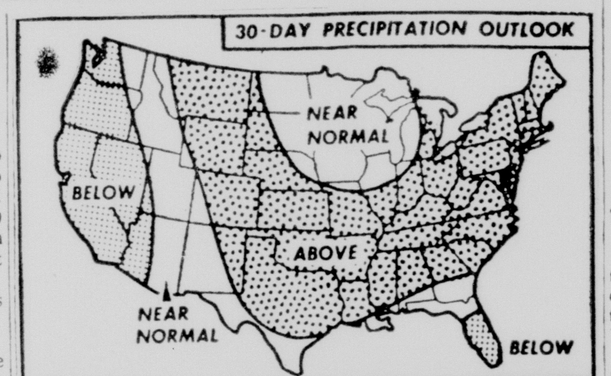

Three and one-half cups cooked or canned tomatoes, ½ cup chopped onion, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 3 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon sugar (if desired), 3 cups hot milk.

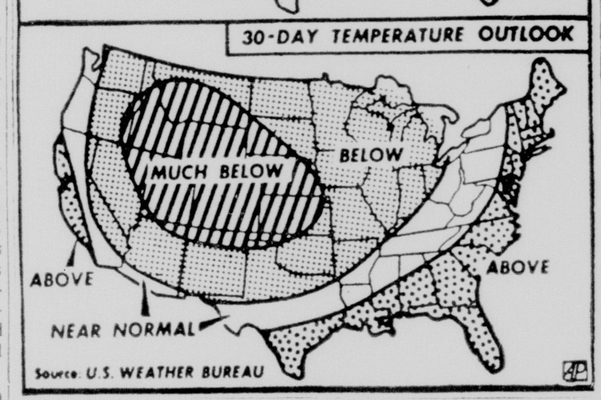

Cook tomatoes and onion together for about 10 minutes; then press through a sieve. Melt fat and blend in flour, salt and sugar (if used). Gradually add sieved tomatoes. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until thickened. Warm the milk and gradually add tomato mixture to it, stirring constantly.

Heat to serving temperature and serve at once. To make your tomato soup even more attractive, float white kernels of popped corn in each bowl, or croutons made of little cubes of bread browned in butter.

Guarding Your Health

By Dr EDWIN P. JORDAN

Adolescence Is Tough on Teens, Parents

The period of life known as adolescence is a problem for virtually every parent. However, all of us who can remember going through these years ourselves must realize that it is even worse for the youngsters!

From the health standpoint, enormous progress has been made in the control of those diseases which formerly took the lives of so many small children, but in many respects the study of the particular problems of adolescence seems to have lagged.

Adolescence is defined as that period of life between puberty and maturity and encompasses roughly the years from 12 to 19 or 20, perhaps being somewhat earlier in girls than in boys.

Actually, the chances of contracting some fatal disease during adolescence is comparatively slight.

Although efforts to improve the health at all ages, including adolescence must continue, the major problem is emotional and mental development during this period since it plays such an important part in later adjustment to the problems of maturity.

Undoubtedly, one specific problem which should be tackled more vigorously is the question of cutting down automobile accidents among these youthful members of our society. The high insurance rates for youthful drivers is proof enough of this need.

The emotional characteristics of adolescence have been studied somewhat. One report on this subject concluded that the adolescent is struggling for independence against the rules set up by grown-ups.

During adolescence, the report goes on, speech and behavior, from day to day, are frequently contradictory. The adolescent commonly seems to be an idealist and yet certainly does not act this way.

In his (or her) relations with others the adolescent may hate violently at one minute and love vehemently the next. He may reject his parents as if they were lepers in a community of healthy people when he is home and when away may idolize them considerably more than they deserve.

As a rule the adolescent hides his own feelings — at least from grownups — but may be exceedingly talkative and open with those of his own age.

A better understanding of the adolescent's emotional problems on the part of the parents, teachers and others that may help in the establishment of a stable personality in adult life.

A fine book on this subject for parents and teachers was published in 1956 by Frank and Frank, entitled "Your Adolescent."

Bunker Hill

Mrs. Margaret Dunlap and Mrs. Elizabeth Wardle of Cleveland, were called here by the death of their father, Robert Armstrong.

Rhonda Martig, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Martig, is confined to the Alliance City Hospital, where she underwent surgery.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Camp and family attended the Carroll County fair.

Mr and Mrs. Harry Camp entertained the Jokers card club at their home Saturday evening. Five hundred was enjoyed, with score awards won by Mrs. Carl McCartney of Salem, and Willard Headland Jr. The hostess served lunch.

The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was conducted Sunday morning at the Bunker Hill Methodist Church with Rev. Ralph Fotia in charge, commemorating World Wide Communion Sunday.

A "Know Your Bible" study series will begin tonight at 7:30 at the Bunker Hill Church. Mrs. Ralph Fotia will be in charge. Choir practice will follow at 8:15.

Women's Society of Christian Service of Bunker Hill will meet Thursday evening at 7:30 for the regular monthly meeting. Mrs. Lee Greenamyer and Mrs. Charles Venable are hostesses and Mrs. Kenneth Hutcheson and Mrs. Colare in charge of the worship and progam, "United Nations."

Miss Joyce Griffiths, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Griffiths and Tom Wallace of Homeworth will be united in marriage Saturday evening at the Bunker Hill Methodist Church at 8:30.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Ray Stanley accompanied their daughter, Mrs. William McCrea and family of Alliance to North Olmstead on Sunday where they enjoyed a picnic lunch. They visited Mrs. Parker of Olmstead Falls and also visited Mrs. Stanley's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Price of Maple Heights.

Linda and Maribeth Todor spent Saturday and Sunday with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Todor of the Goshen Rd.

Fairfield

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Kirk entertained at dinner Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Starbuck from Salem.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Zarnosky entertained callers Sunday including Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Whitehead of Columbiana, Mrs. Louise Whitehead, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gilmore of Rogers.

Mrs. Elizabeth Coppock returned home following a week's visit with her sister, Mrs. Grace Fitzsimmons of Salem.

Mrs. Morris Kirk was a guest of the Boardman Faculty Wives Club which was entertained at the home of Mrs. David Conway of Canfield.

YOUNG ADULT DRIVERS

YOU and your parents do not have to continue paying top auto insurance rates because YOU'RE UNDER 25 . . . .

If you're really AS GOOD AS YOU THINK YOU ARE (and we know you can be) you can drive your way to lower rates.

You can stand on your own feet . . . be insured and keep insured on your own ability and driving record. Let me show you how you can benefit with a new auto insurance program, called NA$P which is fair to all legally licensed drivers . . . Including YOUNG ADULTS AND families with young adult drivers. Come in or call me today!

Lamb Shoulder

Ingredients: 1 square-cut lamb shoulder (with bones removed to make a pocket), 1 cup soft bread crubms, ¼ cup minced onion (1 small), 1 cup finely diced pared apple (1 large), ¼ cup finely diced celery (1 rib), 2 teaspoons salt, ½ teaspoon white pepper.

Method: Wipe meat with a damp cloth. Mix toegher the crumbs, onion, apple, celery, 1 teaspoon of the salt and ¼ teaspoon of the pepper.

Stuff mixture into lamb pocket; sew or skewer together, but not tightly. Sprinkle meat with remaining salt and pepper.

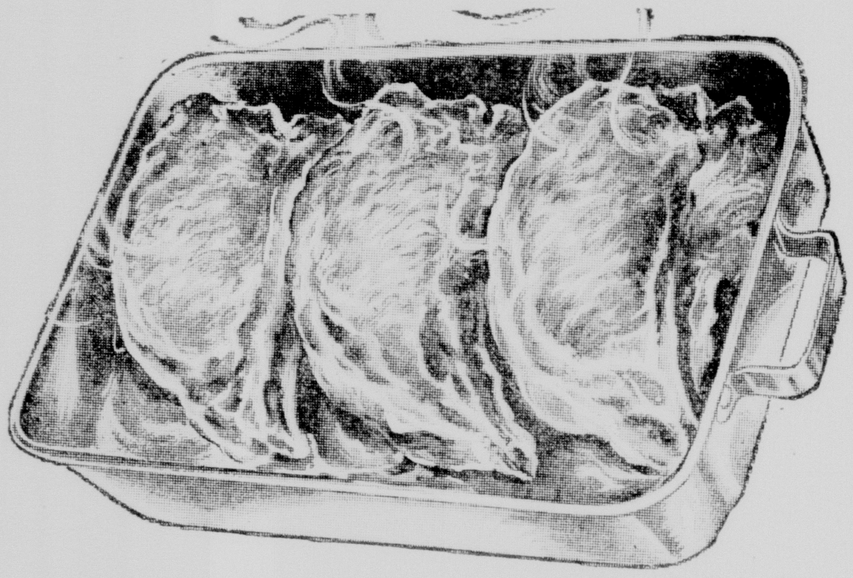

Place on rack in shallow pan in slow 325 degrees) oven about 2½ hours for well-done meat.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Boiled corn beef can be pressed in a loaf pan—place a heavy weight in another loaf pan and put on top of meat; refrigerate until chilled and juices are pressed out and jellied.

Five medium-sized ears of corn will usually yield about two cups after the kernels are cut from the cobs.
